Equality Seen U.S. Objective In Nixon Talk

Vice President Hits Discrimination In Hawaiian Interview

HONOLULU (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, pushing his campaign for the presidency in a state without problems of civil rights, today called for an end to discrimination throughout the country.

"This is the objective to which we should certainly aspire in the United States," Nixon said.

The GOP presidential nominee said, however, that desegregation will take time and a new disposition in many areas of the nation.

"It will be the responsibility of the next president to attempt to build in the hearts of the American people the idea that nondiscrimination is not just a legal problem but a moral problem, not a Southern problem but a national problem, not a government problem but a personal problem."

Nixon made that statement in a televised interview Wednesday night after a day in which he touched on national security, foreign policy and the complications of civil rights in that policy.

He also emphasized two campaign themes: That the voters should decide which of the candidates — himself or Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy — has the necessary experience to run the government and that the federal government should restrict its role to situations with which the individual or the state cannot cope.

A crowd of 35,000 lined the streets of Honolulu and gathered before Iolani Palace, seat of the 50th state's government, to welcome the vice president.

Nixon, by flying to the island group, became the first presidential candidate to court votes outside the continental limits of the United States.

On the go continually, and grabbing a snack when he could, Nixon made a half-dozen ceremonial and handshaking stops during the day.

For the most part, he touched on foreign policy and security. He used Hawaii as an example of practicing equality among people.

Based on his travels, which have taken him to Africa and Asia, Nixon said the greatest problem of the United States in the battle of ideas is explaining how Americans can talk equality and dignity of man abroad and practice prejudice and inequality at home.

Nixon directly pulled Kennedy into his line of fire. After he and Mrs. Nixon cast leis of white carnations over the sunken hull of the battleship Arizona in Pearl Harbor, the vice president said any chief executive must give first

Man To Face Hearing On 'Numbers' Charge

A city man is scheduled for a hearing Friday morning in Municipal Court on a charge of possessing a lottery ticket.

James Ray Smith, 207 Locust Alley, posted a $500 bond after his arrest Wednesday morning on Walnut St.

The charge was filed by Patrolman W. E. McDaniel, who reportedly spotted a sale and then arrested Smith.

It was the third "numbers" arrest this year.

Collins Wins Praise From Crime Group

Mayor Ray Collins of Chester has been commended by the West Virginia Crime Commission for his "conscientious efforts" in enforcing city and state laws.

With the commendation went a promise from the commission to cooperate with the mayor and residents of Chester in law enforcement.

F. Dean Nichols, general counsel, wrote the mayor the commission has learned of "your conscientious efforts to enforce" city ordinances and state laws involving the illegal sale of liquor and gaming violations.

"Any such efforts on the part of public officials and citizens of the state is indeed commendable," Nichols declared.

"One of the purposes of the Crime Commission is to determine the reasons for laxity in the enforcement of the statutes of the state. Violations of our laws exist only where public officials and the citizens of any community become indifferent in their attitude toward state laws which have been enacted for their general welfare.

"It is heartening to know that the efforts of the commission in pin-pointing the problems which exist in your area have been met with public response, and the commission assures you that it will cooperate with you and the citizens of Chester...to bring about conscientious law enforcement."

Mayor Collins personally delivered a warning to all tavern operators as well as two veterans' organizations that "anything illegal" will not be permitted in the city.

Driver Fined As Aftermath Of June Case

A Wellsville area motorist was fined a total of $50 and costs Wednesday in Municipal Court on two charges stemming from a crash June 15 in which two parked cars were damaged and a third was found abandoned at the scene.

Ed Lyons of near Hillcrest was found guilty by Acting Judge Paul Tobin on the charges of leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving. He was fined $25 and costs on each.

Patrolman Floyd Hdedleston filed the charges against Lyons after discovering the parked cars of Joseph Landis, 304 Norton St., and David Randolph, 1100 Dresden Ave., damaged and the abandoned car while on routine patrol on Dresden Ave.

Lyons pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff. He was represented by Atty. John B. McDonald.

Arthur L. Roberts, 118½ E. 2nd St., was fined $5 and costs yesterday on a charge he crashed a traffic signal early yesterday morning at Lisbon and W. 8th Sts.

Loveless Airs Farm Policies With Kennedy

Democrats Discuss Agriculture Issues With Nominee, Staff

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —Sen. John F. Kennedy and a group of farm policy advisers meet today with Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa, who many believe may be secretary of agriculture if Kennedy is elected president.

Loveless, declaring he seeks no Cabinet post, flew here Wednesday with his wife, planning to remain for a week's vacation after his talks with the Democratic presidential nominee.

Kennedy has called the troubled agriculture industry the nation's No. 1 domestic problem.

Loveless is one of a group of Midwestern governors and Congress members with whom Kennedy teamed earlier this week in a bitter blast at Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee for president.

They accused Nixon of running out on farm policies they said he helped to write, and of trying to blame Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for these policies, which they lambasted as "disastrous."

Nixon retorted that Kennedy is using "low road" campaign tactics.

Both parties have promised in their platforms to seek solutions to farm problems. Farm groups complain that farmers must pay more for just about everything they buy, while receiving less for the crops they sell. Kennedy contends Congress, reconvening Monday, should enact emergency farm aid legislation and do something about the costly crop surpluses now plaguing farmers and the government. He has not yet spelled out details of his proposals.

Listed to participate in the meetings with Kennedy are Ralph Bradley, president of the Illinois Farmers Union; Ed Christensen, head of the Minnesota Farmers Union; Harry Caldwell, master of the North Carolina State Grange; Fred Heinkle, president of the Missouri Farmers Association and Willard Cochrane, former University of Minnesota faculty member now on Kennedy's staff as a farm consultant.

Kennedy spent much of Wednesday boning up on economic policy matters with his economic advisers, often called his "brain trust." This group is led by Harvard Law School Prof. Archibald Cox.

Kennedy also won from Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, a pledge of support for his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Reuther said Johnson's record and his support of the Democratic platform entitle him to organized labor's backing.

Bunche Sent To Katanga By U.N. Aide

Dag Pushes Effort To Ease Tension In Congo Secession

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold rushed his chief troubleshooter to Katanga today after giving assurance that U. N. forces will not try to enforce the central Congo government's claim on the rich secessionist province.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche flew to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, a day ahead of schedule after Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe warned U. N. forces "will have to fight their way in" to his province.

The U. N. Command went ahead with plans to send its first units to Katanga Saturday despite Tshombe's threat. A special multiracial task force was alerted to stand by for the move.

Privately U. N. officials said they expected no serious resistance in the mineral-rich province, whose secession would spell economic doom for the rest of the vast central African country.

The Katanga government ordered general mobilization of all able-bodied men in the province, both black and white, to back up the hard core of 500 loyal Congolese troops serving under Belgian officers.

Hammarskjold sought to soften the defiance of the Katanga leaders by emphasizing the U.N. troops were not acting as agents for the central government of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

He said in a statement that the U.N. force is not under the orders of the Lumumba government nor can it be permitted to become a party to any internal conflict.

The fear he sought to put at rest was stated by Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo, who said, "We know only too well that the U.N. forces would bring in their baggage the agents of Lumumba."

Tshombe, in declaring Katanga independent of the central government soon after the Congolese army mutinied last month, charged that Lumumba was planning to set up a Communist dictatorship. The provincial premier and other Katanga leaders want the Congo's provinces joined in a loose federation, with their province retaining much of the revenue from its rich uranium and copper mines and its fertile fields and pastures. Lumumba wants a strong central government and looks to Katanga to finance the poorer remainder of the country.

Although the Belgian cabinet agreed Tuesday that Belgian troops in Katanga would turn over their peace-keeping mission to the U.N. forces, Premier Gaston Eyskens said in Brussels Wednesday night their departure would not be immediate.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny told a news conference the Belgian forces, who have been keeping order at the request of Tshombe's government, would leave only when the Belgian command "decides that the security of persons there is assured."

The Soviets, who charged Wednesday in Pravda that Hammarskjold was acting in the Congo as a pro-American agent, said Wednesday night the decision to send U.N. troops into Katanga struck a blow at those who hoped to "ignore" Security Council decisions.

Mexico May Be 'Cool' Host For Red Premier

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government showed a marked lack of enthusiasm Wednesday night toward a report that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev plans to attend the 150th anniversary celebration of Mexican independence Sept. 16.

Sources at U. N. headquarters in New York said the travel-minded Soviet Premier had notified the Mexican government he would represent the Kremlin at the celebration.

5 Deputies To Be Dropped

Hancock To Cut Staff By 7 Because Of Lower Budget

Faced with a big loss in revenue because of a new law passed by the West Virginia State Legislature, Hancock County will slash seven employes from the payroll and will operate in fiscal 1960 with an extremely tight budget.

County commissioners Wednesday night approved an operating budget of $456,032 — a decrease of some $24,000 from last year—and cut expenses to the limit for county government.

BECAUSE THE last legislature authorized the County Board of Education to appropriate from the county court the needed levies to meet its budget, a loss of $46,000 in revenue forced commissioners to pare an equal amount from funds for operating this year.

The slack will be taken up by the dismissal of two field deputies from the staff of Assessor Edward L. Suplee, cutting the staff of the sheriff by five deputies, and all-around reductions in the expense accounts of most offices.

Two of the five field deputies of the assessor will be dismissed immediately while five of the sheriff's deputies will be cut from the payroll early in 1961.

In making further reductions of county expenses, commissioners also agreed not to re-employ one health nurse in the County Health Department. The post has been vacant since a nurse resigned last year.

TIGHTENING of the county's financial belt is a result of the passage in February by the state legislature of Senate Bill 29 which permits the Board of Education to dip into the county budget because assessments are not up to 50 per cent of the 1958 appraisal figures of State Tax Commissioner Donald C. Carman.

The bill stipulates that property must be assessed at half its appraised value so that school boards will have enough taxing power to raise the money called for under state aid.

Boards were penalized in the past in state aid allocations for the county's failure to raise non-utility property assessments up to the 50 per cent level. But the new law shifts the responsibility to county assessors.

THE LEGISLATURE passed the bill in February and it became official May 10. Suplee assessed county property this year at $105,668,253, an increase of $854,380, but still not high enough to meet the required 50 per cent.

As a result, the County Board of Education is permitted to tack on "extra levies" to provide enough funds for its budget.

Caught in the middle by Senate Bill 29, Suplee said he plans to confer in Charleston with attorneys to study the legality of the law.

"The law was enacted in February and became effective May 10," Suplee said in New Cumberland at last night's budget session. "But the assessment study begins Jan. 1. If I had to wait for a new law to be passed, the books are half completed and assessment figures would be very late. I plan to visit Charleston soon and confer with lawyers for a conference with Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron."

THE LAW says that Suplee must see to it that property is assessed at half its appraised value and that schools have enough taxing power, or failure to do so will be grounds for removal from office.

This year's assessments are not up to the 50 per cent level. Thus, the County Board of Education appropriated $46,183 to operate the school system.

Commissioners, in figuring the loss in revenue, shaved it some by figuring in a $12,500 refund in Butler District road bonds from the state sinking fund.

They said that Suplee must de-

Budget Cut Expected For County Offices

Tentative Figure Of $1,274,413 Exceeds Income For 1961

LISBON — A tentative operating budget of $1,274,413 in general funds for Columbiana County for 1961 has been approved by county commissioners and will be submitted to the County Budget Commission for action.

The budget exceeds by $111,513 the income for the same period, estimated at $1,162,900, and is $55,017 under this year's budget and disbursements estimated at $1,329,430.

Actually, receipts will total $2,300,245, but $970,815 of this will come from motor vehicle funds and are not listed in the general funds as they are designated for road use. Bond retirement will take another $80,000.

The estimate of property tax is down because of removal of the TB levy from the general fund receipts. It must be used as specified.

County office-holders will be asked to pare their budgets by 10 per cent so they can stay within funds to operate in 1961, Frank Wilson, president of the board, said.

General fund balance, $200,000 ($200,000); general property tax, $427,000 ($542,000); classified tax, $7,000 ($10,000); cigarette tax, $4,400 ($4,700); fees of county offices, $251,500 ($302,500); fines, forfeitures and costs, $20,000 ($10,000); sales tax receipts, $144,000 ($133,000); house trailer tax, $11,000 ($10,000); other receipts, $88,000 ($89,580); transfer from dog licenses, road funds, TB levy and emergency housing, $20,000 ($27,600).

A breakdown of disbursements with this year's in parenthesis:

County commissioners, $47,320 ($50,460); Courthouse and jail, $127,000 ($118,480); County Home, $121,660 ($114,660); TB hospitalization, $186,650 ($183,694).

Municipal Court, $6,100 ($6,000); county welfare, $5,700 ($40,700); Blind Relief, $2,000 ($4,500); soldiers burials, $1,800 ($1,600); agricultre; $40,640 ($24,520); county courts, $40,040 ($16,368).

Shots Chase 2 Attempting To Enter Legion

An attempted breaking and entering of Chester American Legion Post 121 was foiled early today when two pistol shots fired by the nightwatchman chased away two men.

Floyd Walker of Carolina Ave., the night watchman of the post, heard burglars attempting to pry the lock of the rear door and fired two shots from a .38-caliber pistol.

Patrolman Clarence Lennens reported the night watchman said he heard one of the men yell following the shots. The burglars fled on foot east in Church Alley.

The area was combed for possible blood spots and clues by Hancock County sheriff's deputies and Patrolman Lennens. Nothing was found to indicate that one of the pair might have been hit by the bullets which Walker fired from inside the building through a glass door.

Lennens said the bullets smashed through the glass in the door approximately 2 inches apart. Walker said he saw two men fleeing, and both had long sideburns. They apparently escaped in an auto parked nearby.

Lennens said he was just getting out of his cruiser into his own auto equipped with a police radio when he heard the burglary report from the sheriff's office in New Cumberland at 3:30 a. m.

2 Boys Drown In Tragedy In Beaver River

BEAVER FALLS — Two 14-year-old boys drowned in the Beaver River Wednesday near the Beaver Falls-Eastvale Bridge while one was trying to save the other.

Randy Bryant and two other youths were fishing when he decided to go wading. He got into deep water and shouted that he couldn't swim.

David Johnson, fully clothed, jumped into the water and made his way to Bryant's side. Apparently Johnson also couldn't swim and he too cried for help.

The third youth, Robert Morlan, 16, extended a fishing pole to Johnson, but it broke. Bryant and Johnson disappeared under the water.

Both bodies were recovered about an hour later. All three were from Beaver Falls.

Ray Bowersock Dies In Wall's Collapse At Midland Works

Ray Bowersock, 138 W. 5th St., was killed at the Crucible Steel Co. this morning when crushed, apparently in the collapse of a wall.

It was the second fatality in two days involving city residents employed at the Midland Works — Kyle Pridemore Jr., 23, of St. George St., died in the blast of an acetylene device in the scarfing section Tuesday night.

Mr. Bowersock was employed as a carpenter. The mill's safety department did not have details of the mishap at noon. The accident occurred about 10:30 a. m.

The body was removed to the Cannon Funeral Home after the victim was pronounced dead at the plant's emergency hospital.

Midland Man Resigns Post As Tax Chief

BEAVER — Robert P. Zapsic of Midland, chief Beaver County tax assessor the last three years, has resigned, effective Sept. 1, to accept a position in the legal department of the Duquesne Light Co.

The Beaver County commissioners expressed "deep regret" over his resignation and voiced appreciation for his service in establishing the new assessment program.

Zapsic is a graduate of Geneva College and attended the University of Georgetown law school. He has been secretary of the Municipal Assessors Association of Pennsylvania. Recently he was recommended as the state's representative in an international assessing contest.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Mecklem of Rochester. The couple have two daughters, Roxanne and Virginia.

Though he will be located in Pittsburgh, Zapsic plans for the present to remain in Midland.

Victim Dies Instantly Of Chest Shot

Prisoner Declares Daughter's Husband Had Been Drinking

LISBON — An unemployed Salem district man was shot to death Wednesday and his father-in-law was held in the County Jail today awaiting a formal charge of murder, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Wyman Leroy Capps, 37, formerly of Alabama, died instantly of a chest wound when shot by Frank W. Fish, 56, of Salem R. D. 5—Egypt Rd.—about 3 miles southeast of Salem.

Fish shot Capps about 4 p. m. with a 12-gauge shot gun from his porch when he was about 18 feet from the steps, the sheriff said, climaxing ill feeling between the two.

The sheriff and prosecutor's office were told that Capps was married to Kathryn Fish, 21, about 3 years ago.

Capps had been in Alabama until about four weeks ago when the family came back to Salem because Capps was out of work. They had been staying at the Fish home since that time.

Yesterday Fish took Mr. and Mrs. Capps into town and then returned for some produce to take to the farm auction in Canfield.

Fish came home late in the afternoon and Mrs. Capps had returned from Salem but her husband had stayed in town.

Capps came home later with two men and had been drinking. He left again and returned about 4 p. m. with some beer and liquor.

Fish said he told him to leave and he went back to the road and left the beer and liquor in the ditch and then started towards the house. Fish said he again warned him to stay away and he returned to the road. But Capps then turned and started for the house again. Fish ran into the house for his shotgun and aimed and shot when Capps didn't stop, the sheriff was told.

Sheriff VanFossan said charges of homicide are expected to be filed but to what degree will depend on further investigation by the sheriff's office, Prosecutor G. William Brokaw and Asst. Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis, who also questioned Fish last night.

Mr. Capps was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Capps of Jasper, Ala.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Linda, 3, and Gladys, 1, and three brothers, Bill Capps, Gene Capps and Bobby Capps, all of Salem.

Fish works at the Mullins Manufacturing Co. in Salem and sells produce. He is the father of 13 children, including the victim's wife.

This is first county homicide since Nov. 16, 1956, when Raymond Porter shot Joseph Mumford in a jealous rage in East Liverpool. Porter is serving a life-term in the Ohio State Penitentiary

The body was taken to the Arbaugh Pierce Funeral Home at Salem pending services.

American Hunters Kill 2 Viet Nam Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Three American hunters killed two Communist guerrillas in a forest skirmish 75 miles north of Saigon last Sunday, a U. S. Embassy spokesman said today.

A French plantation operator, accompanying the Americans, was killed.

The terrorists attacked the foursome and the Frenchman was killed outright, the spokesman said. The Americans killed the attackers with their return fire. The Americans were not injured.

The Americans were guests on the weekend hunting trip near the plantation in heavily wooded Binh province.

Papers found on the dead guerrillas identified one as a high officer of the Viet Cong movement assigned to subversion work, a government report said.

The U. N. Command went ahead with plans to send its first units to Katanga Saturday despite Tshombe's threat. A special multiracial task force was alerted to stand by for the move.

Privately U. N. officials said they expected no serious resistance in the mineral-rich province, whose secession would spell economic doom for the rest of the vast central African country.

The Katanga government ordered general mobilization of all able-bodied men in the province, both black and white, to back up the hard core of 500 loyal Congolese troops serving under Belgian officers.

Hammarskjold sought to soften the defiance of the Katanga leaders by emphasizing the U.N. troops were not acting as agents for the central government of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

He said in a statement that the U.N. force is not under the orders of the Lumumba government nor can it be permitted to become a party to any internal conflict.

The fear he sought to put at rest was stated by Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo, who said, "We know only too well that the U.N. forces would bring in their baggage the agents of Lumumba."

Tshombe, in declaring Katanga independent of the central government soon after the Congolese army mutinied last month, charged that Lumumba was planning to set up a Communist dictatorship. The provincial premier and other Katanga leaders want the Congo's provinces joined in a loose federation, with their province retaining much of the revenue from its rich uranium and copper mines and its fertile fields and pastures. Lumumba wants a strong central government and looks to Katanga to finance the poorer remainder of the country.

Although the Belgian cabinet agreed Tuesday that Belgian troops in Katanga would turn over their peace-keeping mission to the U.N. forces, Premier Gaston Eyskens said in Brussels Wednesday night their departure would not be immediate.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny told a news conference the Belgian forces, who have been keeping order at the request of Tshombe's government, would leave only when the Belgian command "decides that the security of persons there is assured."

The Soviets, who charged Wednesday in Pravda that Hammarskjold was acting in the Congo as a pro-American agent, said Wednesday night the decision to send U.N. troops into Katanga struck a blow at those who hoped to "ignore" Security Council decisions.

Mexico May Be 'Cool' Host For Red Premier

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government showed a marked lack of enthusiasm Wednesday night toward a report that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev plans to attend the 150th anniversary celebration of Mexican independence Sept. 16.

Sources at U. N. headquarters in New York said the travel-minded Soviet Premier had notified the Mexican government he would represent the Kremlin at the celebration.

5 Deputies To Be Dropped

Hancock To Cut Staff By 7 Because Of Lower Budget

Faced with a big loss in revenue because of a new law passed by the West Virginia State Legislature, Hancock County will slash seven employes from the payroll and will operate in fiscal 1960 with an extremely tight budget.

County commissioners Wednesday night approved an operating budget of $456,032 — a decrease of some $24,000 from last year— and cut expenses to the limit for county government.

BECAUSE THE last legislature authorized the County Board of Education to appropriate from the county court the needed levies to meet its budget, a loss of $46,000 in revenue forced commissioners to pare an equal amount from funds for operating this year.

The slack will be taken up by the dismissal of two field deputies from the staff of Assessor Edward L. Suplee, cutting the staff of the sheriff by five deputies, and all-around reductions in the expense accounts of most offices.

Two of the five field deputies of the assessor will be dismissed immediately while five of the sheriff's deputies will be cut from the payroll early in 1961.

In making further reductions of county expenses, commissioners also agreed not to re-employ one health nurse in the County Health Department. The post has been vacant since a nurse resigned last year.

TIGHTENING of the county's financial belt is a result of the passage in February by the state legislature of Senate Bill 29 which permits the Board of Education to dip into the county budget because assessments are not up to 50 per cent of the 1958 appraisal figures of State Tax Commissioner Donald C. Carman.

The bill stipulates that property must be assessed at half its appraised value so that school boards will have enough taxing power to raise the money called for under state aid.

Boards were penalized in the past in state aid allocations for the county's failure to raise non-utility property assessments up to the 50 per cent level. But the new law shifts the responsibility to county assessors.

THE LEGISLATURE passed the bill in February and it became official May 10. Suplee assessed county property this year at $105,668,253, an increase of $854,380, but still not high enough to meet the required 50 per cent.

As a result, the County Board of Education is permitted to tack on "extra levies" to provide enough funds for its budget.

Caught in the middle by Senate Bill 29, Suplee said he plans to confer in Charleston with attorneys to study the legality of the law.

"The law was enacted in February and became effective May 10," Suplee said in New Cumberland at last night's budget session. "But the assessment study begins Jan. 1. If I had to wait for a new law to be passed, the books are half completed and assessment figures would be very late. I plan to visit Charleston soon and confer with lawyers for a conference with Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron."

THE LAW says that Suplee must see to it that property is assessed at half its appraised value and that schools have enough taxing power, or failure to do so will be grounds for removal from office.

This year's assessments are not up to the 50 per cent level. Thus, the County Board of Education appropriated $46,183 to operate the school system.

Commissioners, in figuring the loss in revenue, shaved it some by figuring in a $12,500 refund in Butler District road bonds from the state sinking fund.

They said that Suplee must de-

Budget Cut Expected For County Offices

Tentative Figure Of $1,274,413 Exceeds Income For 1961

LISBON — A tentative operating budget of $1,274,413 in general funds for Columbiana County for 1961 has been approved by county commissioners and will be submitted to the County Budget Commission for action.

The budget exceeds by $111,513 the income for the same period, estimated at $1,162,900, and is $55,017 under this year's budget and disbursements estimated at $1,329,430.

Actually, receipts will total $2,300,245, but $970,815 of this will come from motor vehicle funds and are not listed in the general funds as they are designated for road use. Bond retirement will take another $80,000.

The estimate of property tax is down because of removal of the TB levy from the general fund receipts. It must be used as specified.

County office-holders will be asked to pare their budgets by 10 per cent so they can stay within funds to operate in 1961, Frank Wilson, president of the board, said.

General fund balance, $200,000 ($200,000); general property tax, $427,000 ($542,000); classified tax, $7,000 ($10,000); cigarette tax, $4,400 ($4,700); fees of county offices, $251,500 ($302,500); fines, forfeitures and costs, $20,000 ($10,000); sales tax receipts, $144,000 ($133,000); house trailer tax, $11,000 ($10,000); other receipts, $88,000 ($89,580); transfer from dog licenses, road funds, TB levy and emergency housing, $20,000 ($27,600).

Motor vehicle receipts, $970,815 ($974,000) bond retirement $80,000 ($80,700).

A breakdown of disbursements with this year's in parenthesis:

County commissioners, $47,320 ($50,460); Courthouse and jail, $127,000 ($118,480); County Home, $121,660 ($114,660); TB hospitalization, $186,650 ($183,694).

Municipal Court, $6,100 ($6,000); county welfare, $5,700 ($40,700); Blind Relief, $2,000 ($4,500); soldiers burials, $1,800 ($1,600); agricultre; $40,640 ($24,520); county courts, $40,040 ($16,368).

Miscellaneous (none), ($20,562);

Shots Chase 2 Attempting To Enter Legion

An attempted breaking and entering of Chester American Legion Post 121 was foiled early today when two pistol shots fired by the nightwatchman chased away two men.

Floyd Walker of Carolina Ave., the night watchman of the post, heard burglars attempting to pry the lock of the rear door and fired two shots from a .38-caliber pistol.

Patrolman Clarence Lennens reported the night watchman said he heard one of the men yell following the shots. The burglars fled on foot east in Church Alley.

The area was combed for possible blood spots and clues by Hancock County sheriff's deputies and Patrolman Lennens. Nothing was found to indicate that one of the pair might have been hit by the bullets which Walker fired from inside the building through a glass door.

Lennens said the bullets smashed through the glass in the door approximately 2 inches apart. Walker said he saw two men fleeing, and both had long sideburns. They apparently escaped in an auto parked nearby.

Lennens said he was just getting out of his cruiser into his own auto equipped with a police radio when he heard the burglary report from the sheriff's office in New Cumberland at 3:30 a. m.

2 Boys Drown In Tragedy In Beaver River

BEAVER FALLS — Two 14-year-old boys drowned in the Beaver River Wednesday near the Beaver Falls-Eastvale Bridge while one was trying to save the other.

Randy Bryant and two other youths were fishing when he decided to go wading. He got into deep water and shouted that he couldn't swim.

David Johnson, fully clothed, jumped into the water and made his way to Bryant's side. Apparently Johnson also couldn't swim and he too cried for help.

The third youth, Robert Morlan, 16, extended a fishing pole to Johnson, but it broke. Bryant and Johnson disappeared under the water.

Both bodies were recovered about an hour later. All three were from Beaver Falls.

Another City Man Dies In Mishap At Mill

Ray Bowersock Dies In Wall's Collapse At Midland Works

Ray Bowersock, 138 W. 5th St., was killed at the Crucible Steel Co. this morning when crushed, apparently in the collapse of a wall.

It was the second fatality in two days involving city residents employed at the Midland Works — Kyle Pridemore Jr., 23, of St. George St., died in the blast of an acetylene device in the scarfing section Tuesday night.

Mr. Bowersock was employed as a carpenter. The mill's safety department did not have details of the mishap at noon. The accident occurred about 10:30 a. m.

The body was removed to the Cannon Funeral Home after the victim was pronounced dead at the plant's emergency hospital.

Midland Man Resigns Post As Tax Chief

BEAVER — Robert P. Zapsic of Midland, chief Beaver County tax assessor the last three years, has resigned, effective Sept. 1, to accept a position in the legal department of the Duquesne Light Co.

The Beaver County commissioners expressed "deep regret" over his resignation and voiced appreciation for his service in establishing the new assessment program.

Zapsic is a graduate of Geneva College and attended the University of Georgetown law school. He has been secretary of the Municipal Assessors Association of Pennsylvania. Recently he was recommended as the state's representative in an international assessing contest.

He is married to the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Mecklem of Rochester. The couple have two daughters, Roxanne and Virginia.

Though he will be located in Pittsburgh, Zapsic plans for the present to remain in Midland.

Victim Dies Instantly Of Chest Shot

Prisoner Declares Daughter's Husband Had Been Drinking

LISBON — An unemployed Salem district man was shot to death Wednesday and his father-in-law was held in the County Jail today awaiting a formal charge of murder, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Wyman Leroy Capps, 37, formerly of Alabama, died instantly of a chest wound when shot by Frank W. Fish, 56, of Salem R. D. 5—Egypt Rd.—about 3 miles southeast of Salem.

Fish shot Capps about 4 p. m. with a 12-gauge shot gun from his porch when he was about 18 feet from the steps, the sheriff said, climaxing ill feeling between the two.

The sheriff and prosecutor's office were told that Capps was married to Kathryn Fish, 21, about 3 years ago.

Capps had been in Alabama until about four weeks ago when the family came back to Salem because Capps was out of work. They had been staying at the Fish home since that time.

Yesterday Fish took Mr. and Mrs. Capps into town and then returned for some produce to take to the farm auction in Canfield.

Fish came home late in the afternoon and Mrs. Capps had returned from Salem but her husband had stayed in town.

Capps came home later with two men and had been drinking. He left again and returned about 4 p. m. with some beer and liquor.

Fish said he told him to leave and he went back to the road and left the beer and liquor in the ditch and then started towards the house. Fish said he again warned him to stay away and he returned to the road. But Capps then turned and started for the house again. Fish ran into the house for his shotgun and aimed and shot when Capps didn't stop, the sheriff was told.

Sheriff VanFossan said charges of homicide are expected to be filed but to what degree will depend on further investigation by the sheriff's office, Prosecutor G. William Brokaw and Asst. Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis, who also questioned Fish last night.

Mr. Capps was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Capps of Jasper, Ala.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Linda, 3, and Gladys, 1, and three brothers, Bill Capps, Gene Capps and Bobby Capps, all of Salem.

Fish works at the Mullins Manufacturing Co. in Salem and sells produce. He is the father of 13 children, including the victim's wife.

This is first county homicide since Nov. 16, 1956, when Raymond Porter shot Joseph Mumford in a jealous rage in East Liverpool. Porter is serving a life-term in the Ohio State Penitentiary

The body was taken to the Arbaugh Pierce Funeral Home at Salem pending services.

American Hunters Kill 2 Viet Nam Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Three American hunters killed two Communist guerrillas in a forest skirmish 75 miles north of Saigon last Sunday, a U. S. Embassy spokesman said today.

A French plantation operator, accompanying the Americans, was killed.

The terrorists attacked the foursome and the Frenchman was killed outright, the spokesman said. The Americans killed the attackers with their return fire. The Americans were not injured.

The Americans were guests on the weekend hunting trip near the plantation in heavily wooded Binh province.

Papers found on the dead guerrillas identified one as a high officer of the Viet Cong movement assigned to subversion work, a government report said.

Council Budget Limited

Chester Must Skip Major Projects For Fiscal Year

Because of its limited budget, the city of Chester will not be able to undertake any major projects in the next year, Councilman W. F. Bishop, chairman of the finance committee, told Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night at City Hall.

However, the city will finish the fiscal year in good shape if citizens and Council co-operate, Bishop said.

At a special meeting Tuesday night, Council approved a budget of $48,029, $8,100 lower than the present budget provides.

THE POSSIBILITY of purchasing gasoline for city equipment at a cheaper rate was discussed, but Council agreed to give the matter further consideration. Don Chaney, operator of a station on Carolina Ave., told Council he does not believe service station owners would object.

Chaney told Council he has turned over $778 in contributions from individuals, businesses and industries to Clarence Lennens, secretary-treasurer, of the volunteer fire department.

It includes $48 netted from a baseball throwing game held two nights at the firemen's fair in which Mayor Ray Collins and Chaney were dunked by direct hits on a target.

BECAUSE THE city ordinance does not conform to state legislation regarding the number of members on a Sanitary Board, Council instructed Mrs. Ruth Cox Turner, city solicitor, to prepare an amendment to the city law.

The city ordinance now provides for four members on the sanitary board while state legislation fixes the membership at three.

Council also ordered legislation prohibiting solicitation within the city limits.

A load limit of 6,000 pounds on all trucks using 3rd St. from Carolina Ave. to Virginia Ave. and Virginia Ave. to 1st St. was approved. Council took the action to help maintain the new layer of blacktop installed late last year.

Through trucks on the two streets have been banned for some time.

COUNCIL ALSO voted to move the municipal water works office from Council chambers to the front office in City Hall. The move will be made at the expense of the water department.

It authorized Roy Cashdollar, city clerk, to request the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to install a public pay telephone booth on the sidewalk in front of City Hall.

Council also instructed Cashdollar to write the Pennsylvania Railroad, asking guard rails on the 2nd St. overhead bridge be repaired, the 5th St. crossing be widened, and weeds on the right-of-way be cut.

At the suggestion of Councilman Harry Davis, building committee chairman, Council agreed to have the King Exterminator Co. of East Liverpool spray the building monthly.

DAVIS ALSO commended the supervisors and officers for the manner in which the Hi-Teen has been operated in the city building.

Councilman Cyril Govey, street committee chairman, expressed thanks to all departments for their co-operation.

Cashdollar read a letter from the Session of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church, commending city officials for their stand on illegal operations and pledging assistance.

A letter from the West Virginia Crime Commission, promising its co-operation, also was read by the clerk.

Bills totaling $2,878 were ordered paid. Mayor Collins presided. The next meeting will be Aug. 17.

Steubenville Presbyterial's Fall Events Set By Officers

The fall district meetings for the Steubenville Presbyterial were set up when district and Presbyterial officers met Wednesday at Carrollton. Some 19 attended.

District 2 will meet Oct. 4 at Brilliant, District 3, Oct. 5 at the Jewett Ridge Church, and Districts 2 and 3 will also have an evening session Oct. 5 at Hopedale.

The all-day meeting for District 4 will be held Oct. 6 at New Harrisburg and the meeting of District 1 is scheduled Oct. 7 at the Bethel church. Another evening meeting for Districts 1 and 4 is set for Oct. 6 at Salineville. All will be held on Daylight Saving Time.

The speakers, home on furlough, will be Miss Ruth Harmon of Iran and the Rev. and Mrs. Calvin Hazelet of India.

The Scripture reference for the sessions will be taken from 1 Pet. 1: 1-13. A 15-minute silent meditation will precede each meeting. The business will be cut to a minimum to give more time to the workshop periods as two have been added.

Workshops will include administration, fellowship, program, world service and the new additions — circle leaders and local nominating committees. Groups are urged to send representatives to the new workshops.

Goal sheets will be turned in at the fall sessions and departmental objectives for the 1961 season will be listed.

Items for the Presbyterian newsletter must be sent to Mrs. Bray Toot of Delroy by Aug. 20. The new publication, "Guide for Presbyterial Officers," was not ready for distribution and will be mailed to all officers.

A sack lunch was enjoyed at noon with Mrs. James Huston of the church as hostess. Mrs. Robert Gray, children's work advisor, gave the closing prayer.

Attending from the area were Mrs. Lee Myers, president, and Mrs. Allen Pepin, secretary-treasurer of District 1, both of the Longs Run church; Mrs. Nelson Wright, literature secretary; Mrs. Leland Pittenger, social education and action secretary; Mrs. Harold Dray, a member of the nominating committee, and Mrs. Donald Baxter, Junior-Hi advisor, all of the Trinity church, and Mrs. Herbert Frischkorn, first vice president of the Presbyterial, from the Oak Ridge church.

Global NATO Put In Planning Stage

BONN, Germany (AP) — The leaders of France and West Germany have laid the groundwork for a campaign to broaden the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a global political force, usually reliable sources said today.

This was reported to have been the main theme of the secret talks held last weekend between President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The two were also said to have taken the first tentative steps toward a program of European political unity, encompassing both the six common market nations and Britain and perhaps others as well.

The informants said Adenauer and De Gaulle are convinced that the world situation has changed so radically since NATO was founded in 1949 that a major overhaul is required.

Warren Woman Killed

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—This city recorded its fourth traffic fatality of the year Wednesday with the death of Mrs. Anna Hayes, 65, who was hit by an automobile as she started to cross a street near her home.

Huge Robot Terrifies Restaurant Waitress

RANGELEY, Maine (AP) — A 12-foot 200-pound robot covered with green scales had the whole town in a stir Wednesday.

A waitress came across it by accident in a restaurant walk-in refrigerator.

Barbara Brackett said she brushed against the robot, starting off its machinery, and became terrified. She raced out of the restaurant screaming, followed by about 25 patrons.

James Marshall said he built the machine in his spare time over the last two years for use in a traveling show called "Terrors of the Unknown." He was using the refrigerator to test the robot for cold-climate operation.

The restaurant proprietor, Elmer Grant, said he had granted Marshall use of the refrigerator.

"I never want to see Marshall or the monster again," he said. "I have never seen such a hideous creature in all my life."

Toledo Boy, 10, Slays Sister In Gun Accident

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A 10-year-old boy accidentally shot and killed his 8-year-old sister Wednesday in their Monclova Twp. home.

Dead is Karen Delys Amerski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Amerski.

Deputy Sheriff Eugene Nusbaum said Karen, her brother, Frank, and a sister, Patricia, 1, were in the house alone when the shooting occurred. Frank took a .22-caliber pistol from a drawer and, thinking it was unloaded, pointed it at Karen and pulled the trigger, the deputy said.

Dr. Harry Mignerey, deputy coroner, placed the boy in his mother's custody pending an investigation.

Network Asks Rights For Televising Senate

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Broadcasting Co. wants to televise and broadcast the forthcoming sessions of the United States Senate.

ABC, in a telegram Wednesday to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois asked for broadcast privileges and said it "will in no way interfere with the traditional proceedings of, nor impair the dignity of the Senate."

Ohio Sets Honor Camp For Gallipolis Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Establishment of a prison honor camp on the grounds of Gallipolis State Hospital in Gallia County is on the program of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Department officials visited the hospital this week to inspect buildings to be converted into dormitories for honor prisoners. They estimate 50 to 60 men will be housed there in the initial move. They will work on the hospital's farms.

Other honor camps will be established at Dayton and Hawthornden State Hospitals in the near future, the department said.

Big As The State Of Texas

All the circumstances are in place for one of the sad hours in U.S. history.

The political strategy of "Mister Sam" Rayburn and his fellow Texan, Lyndon B. Johnson, is about to backfire.

It was their idea to stall and stutter through the second session of the 86th Congress until time ran out, then call a recess during the party conventions, with a view to making political hay afterward in the House and Senate. Sen. Johnson would kick off his own campaign as leader of the Senate Democrats.

What backfired was Sen. Johnson's plan to come back to Washington with the presidential nomination.

He is coming back, instead, with a crowd of hopping-mad, southern-fried segregationists thirsting for his blood, which they will have to share with labor leaders and party left-wingers who would rather be caught dead now than help Lyndon B. Johnson.

"Mister Sam" and the senator can't undo the damage. They have the August meeting of Congress they wanted. They don't have the presidential nomination, but now they have the responsibility for making it mean something to Sen. Kennedy.

THE ONLY WAY to make Sen. Kennedy's nomination come to life by the ruse of conducting the early part of the 1960 presidential campaign in Congress, instead of on the stump, is to whoop through the Democratic party's platform promises.

Democrats hold two-thirds of the seats in both houses of Congress. They have enough votes to put through anything they want.

But the only things they conceivable might want to put through are multi-billion-dollar spending programs, which President Eisenhower would stop with a veto.

They haven't the slighest interest in keeping their promises on civil rights, for example. Worse yet, they haven't the slightest ability to keep the promise, because the Democratic party's southern members would stall and filibuster until Christmas to stop a civil rights proposal. They have no motive for making John Kennedy and his backers look good.

WHEN "Mister Sam" and "LBJ" cooked up this stunt to call Congress back to Washington after the conventions, it was our hunch they had outwitted themselves in the great tradition of politicians who think too hard about being cute.

It looks more that way every minute. The Democratic party that claims two-thirds of the representatives and senators is finally going to have to take responsibility for what happens and doesn't happen in Congress. The Democrats have fooled some of the people all of the time and part of the people part of the time, but starting on Aug. 8 they are not going to be able to fool all the people all the time.

Even little Democrats too young to vote will know before this fracas is over that "Mister Sam" and the Texan who ended up as Democratic vice presidential candidate pulled a rock as big as the state they hail from.

More Support

More recognition has come to Mayor Ray Collins of Chester in his drive for proper enforcement of the law — this time in the form of a commendation from the West Virginia Crime Commission.

The mayor needs all the support he can muster and the kind words of the commission on top of the firm pledge of the group of "Citizens For Better Government" must be gratifying.

Things are going well now in the "clean-up" campaign. Both the residents of Chester and members of the Crime Commission must see to it that there is no slackening on their part. Everything indicates there won't be.

A Testimonial For 'Clean' Rivers

East Liverpool and other upper valley communities have a strong testimonial on behalf of clean rivers in a statement by the West Virginia Conservation Department.

Among a department official's quotes were: "Sick rivers turn people sick, either inwardly or physically . . I couldn't in good faith raise my children along a black, silt-ridden river or one burned red with acid mine drainage. A lot of others don't want to raise their youngsters there, either, and so they move."

Fortunately, the strong words of condemnation can't be applied to the waters of the Ohio in the upper valley. There are still things to be done, but sewage disposal plants —such as the one here—and non-pollution programs at industrial concerns have done much to eliminate many of the evils that existed in the past.

Another section of the West Virginia report included this pertinent comment:" ... clean waters attract concrete and steel industries, facilities that people here generally can see and evaluate, just as they attract tourists."

No truer words have been spoken in pleading the case of proper waterways.

And with the cleaning up of the streams themselves goes our oft-repeated appeal that the water fronts of the communities keep pace.

Various boat clubs have done much to brighten things here and on the West Virginia side of the river, but much still could be done to make the river banks more attractive and point up one of the natural advantages we have to offer both to the folks at home and to those passing through.

Get Their Shots

Cases of polio break into the news from time to time despite the great strides made in the fight against the dread disease.

When considered one by one, the danger is not brought home so forcefully. Wednesday, however, not too far from East Liverpool, nine children were reported hit by polio within a 24-hour period.

The victims all reside in nearby Pennsylvania—one in Pittsburgh, six in Somerset County and one each in Westmoreland and Indiana counties. Six of the youngsters had not received the protective Salk vaccine shots.

Nine cases at once have both an alarming and sobering effect. If your children haven't had their shots, no further warning should be necessary. See that they're taken care of as quickly as possible. Too long a delay could be fatal.

The Once Over

Nixon opens his campaign in Hawaii. This could be first attack on Democrats from a surfboard. With Kennedy replying with speech under water. Harry Truman got a Texas cowboy hat from Johnson. But Harry will use his own personal rope, spurs, chewing gum and jokes. Harvard men are in a tough spot in the election. Kennedy and Lodge are Harvard boys, so to be neutral, grads may have to vote for Kennedy for president and Lodge for veep. Henry's nomination is first indication election battle will be so violent United Nations influence will be needed.

It will be a relief for Lodge to be in a battle in which there will be no need for interpreters or consecutive translations. And what a comfort to be in a fight where he can't be accused of border violations or crude aggressions against peace-loving opponents!

LODGE CAN BE the Scene Stealer of this campaign. In an age when it pays to be photogenic he may occupy the star's dressing room and make Nixon seem like an understudy. His brother John did well on the stage as a matinee idol, and Henry Cabot has good looks, drawing-room manner and techniques which would make it easy for him to step into 'Springtime For Henry." On TV in this campaign he could seem to be starring in "East River Boat," "Doorway to Destiny," "Search For Tomorrow," "The Untouchables" or, on the basis of anti-Soviet performances, "Truth Or Consequences."

He has a rare combination of glamor, forcefulness and dignity, a smile that is not prefabricated and a voice without schmalz. Khrushchev went into orbit higher than sputniks when he heard of nomination of man who has spent years in the United Nations as the Voice That Launched a Thousand Clips.

Big Unions Defended By Noted Attorney

By Victor Riesel

Few would deny that Arthur Goldberg is Mr. Labor Lawyer of all time. He is counsel to the United Steel Workers of America and counsel to the AFL-CIO and attorney for many national unions. Victor Riesel asked Mr. Goldberg for his views on what he believes to be the basic labor issue today. This is his reply.

By ARTHUR J. GOLDBERG

The principal concern about bigness in labor comes not from members of unions but from two groups outside the labor movement.

One group has no objection to bigness as such. This group only objects to bigness in the labor movement. It consists primarily of those who have always opposed the existence of effective trade unions and who have seized upon the element of bigness as merely the latest in a series of propaganda weapons.

These interests opposed unions when they were small and now oppose them even more vehemently when they are large.

They assume that it will be easier to defeat or hamper the forward progress of 20 or 100 small steel unions than one large steel union and I suppose they are correct in that estimate. These opponents of effective unionism were answered in 1937 by Chief Justice Hughes in the Jones & Laughlin case, sustaining the validity of the Wagner Act, in these words:

"Long ago we stated the reason for labor organization. We said they were organized out of the . . . necessities of the situation; that a single employe was helpless in dealing with an employer . . . that union was essential to give laborers opportunity to deal on an equality with their employer."

This self-evident truth applies today in answer to those who believe that the managers of big powerful enterprises should have the privilege of sitting across the collective bargaining table from the leaders of weak, divided and helpless unions.

THE SECOND GROUP concerned about bigness in the labor movement are those legitimately and genuinely concerned with bigness in every form of social organization and who see in bigness per se a threat to the individuality of our lives and to the future of our democratic processes and institutions.

To that group the answer is that we are living in a period of spectacular, amazing, unrelenting growth. We cannot turn back the clock, and if we could it would not be desirable to do so. Bigness is a part of today's life and only romanticists seriously visualize a change in this pattern.

Certainly, our experience with bigness in corporations provides proof of this fact if proof is required. For almost 70 years now, since the passage of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, the federal government has wrestled with the problem of bigness in corporations. Nevertheless, corporations have grown apace, notwithstanding the statute.

Life in a society of big units may not always be pleasant, but putting nostalgia aside, it is certainly better than it used to be in the so-called "good old days." Certainly for the average working man, his standard of living has been markedly improved in the era which has been characterized by big business units and by the growth of big unions.

THERE ARE FOUR AREAS where it seems reasonably clear that large unions serve the purpose of the individual and of the society better than small unions — or at a very minimum, serve these purposes no worse than small unions.

First, in the big, rich, mass-production industries that dominate the American economy, it seems to me beyond need of proof that big unionism is the only effective and satisfactory form of unionism.

Second, I think that a study of the internal structures and practices of big unions and small unions would show no particular advantage for the smaller, presumably more grass-roots type of labor organization, in the area of ethical practices and democratic rights. The Ethical Practices Committee of the AFL-CIO found evidences of corruption and lack of democracy in a few small unions and in a large one, too.

Corruption is not a function of bigness in unions; indeed, there is room for speculating that the smaller group, with its more convenient power levers available to corrupt elements, may be more susceptiable to perversion of ethical and democratic rights than larger, more formal entities.

THIRD, large unions seem as capable and as desirous as smaller organizations in promoting civil rights programs, protecting the due process of members and insisting on formal procedures to protect individual members from unfair actions by fellow members or by officers. Perhaps because of their bigness, diversified membership and all-inclusiveness, many of the larger unions can point to far more progress in the fields of civil liberties and civil rights than many of the small unions.

Fourth, big unions have developed imposing educational citizenship and community service programs. These are unselfish projects which inure to the gain of the communities as well as the members. While the union as an organism certainly derives benefits from raising the educational level of its membership, or of making its members and their families more sophisticated politically, it is equally clear that over the long run that same process also serves to enable the members to play a more useful role in their own relationship with the union organization and in the performance of their civic obligations.

The member of a union has a citizenship responsibility to exert his franchise in his union, and thereby to insure that the organization represents the will of the majority. There are cases, in both big unions and small, where that franchise has not been exerted sufficiently or at all.

But I see no pattern emerging in the American trade union movement to suggest that the individual has fewer rights, or exercises his rights less, or receives less service, or gets fewer benefits in a big union as compared to his brother in the smaller trade union organizations.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

This image business that everybody talks about is important in politics. No doubt about it. Like the way Adlai Stevenson did all the talking while Sen. Kennedy stood silent in an interview at Hyannis Port. The Democrats mustn't let that image happen again.

It always seems to me the summer is normal when my friends begin to ask what's wrong with the Cleveland Indians and I begin to wonder whether it would be worth my time to paint and putty the storm windows.

It will astonish me if Fidel Castro's brother Raul can hang on to Fidel's job, if the real leader of the Cuban revolution is shelved by illness. The Cuban people bought the idea of a revolution led by Fidel, not his little brother.

Among things delayed by cold weather in July is the ripening of tomatoes, a luxury crop I fool with for the pleasure of picking a ripe one off the vine and eating it like an apple, with juice dribbling off my chin.

For the first time in my life, I've had someone to pitch horseshoes with all summer, and the result has been a seesaw contest between contestants who claim no aptitude and show no signs of developing any. One time I take two out of three, the next time I lose. But horseshoes is still one of the best of all games.

This idea bowled me over when I ran across it: That the evolution of suburbs in U.S. metropolitan areas is segregating the conservative middle class from the have-nots and have-everythings who will continue to live in city slums and plushy city apartments; that middle class suburbanites never can be persuaded to throw in their political lot again with their city cousins because they will have nothing in common with them as far as politics is concerned.

It bothers me when people are admiring jewelry to realize that I get more enjoyment out of the costume variety than out of the expensive stuff, which I couldn't afford anyway. Fortunately, the lady I am married to feels the same way.

Being of the generation that cried over "Little Belgium" when the Huns were tramping it underfoot in World War I, I find it hard to comprehend that part of the Congo trouble that might explode into war is caused by "Little Belgium's" hanging on to its influence in Katanga Province, which furnishes most of the revenue for the Congolese.

And isn't this the right time to remember the fellow who pointed out when he was about to cash in his chips that most of the things he worried about in his life never happened? Farmers aren't really down and out, cities aren't really rotten and the American people aren't really confused. But if the politicians didn't say so, what would there be for them to fix at piecework rates, with overtime and bonuses?

The New Yorker magazine pinned down the thing that got under my skin while watching the political conventions. It said a reporter is supposed to help you understand what happened on a newsworthy occasion, whereas the TV commentators sometimes acted as though they, themselves, were the newsworthy occasion and a darned sight more interesting than what was happening in the conventions.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Two hundred eighteen children from East End were among those due to report to school in September, according to a survey report.

Wellsville's bonded indebtedness was reported at $328,750, the lowest figure in the last 20 years.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Herbert G. Means, superintendent of East Liverpool schools, received a Doctor of Education degree from Geneva College in Beaver Falls.

R. S. Stivason was appointed acting assistant chief of the fire department.

Glenn C. Tefft of Wellsville was elected commander of the Columbiana County American Legion.

TEN YEARS AGO — American Legion Post 5 won its first city pennant, defeating the defending champion Golden Star team, 6-4.

Aid Needs Security

By David Lawrence

'Giveaway' By Itself Isn't The Answer

After all the big talk at the two national political conventions about the need for a "firm" foreign policy, Congress next week has an opportunity to do something concrete to protect the lives and properties of American citizens abroad.

David Lawrence

There's little sense in appropriating billions for "foreign aid" or for assisting the United Nations to protect the lives of foreigners in such areas as the Congo, when no provision is being made to protect the properties of citizens who already have built their homes and businesses abroad.

Why should American companies be encouraged now or hereafter by our government to invest capital in foreign countries when, as in the case of Cuba, for instance, such properties are confiscated without satisfactory arrangements for adequate compensation?

The United States is being asked to assist the new government of the Congo. Yet, in the face of first-hand testimony to the contrary, the Congo Prime Minister says it's a lie that foreign women have been raped and mistreated.

AMERICAN TAXPAYERS are footing the bill for supplies being sent to the Congo through the United Nations, but there is no sign of any recognition by the Congo government of its responsibilities to the foreigners. Indeed, the new Prime Minister, Patrice Lumumba, who was wined and dined only a few days ago in Washington, has just approved an order by his cabinet whereby all properties abandoned by the Belgians when they fled from the Congo will be grabbed by the government at Leopoldville unless reclaimed within eight days.

This is a plain case of thievery. It is a result of the action of the Congo government's own troops, who engaged in the very atrocities which directly caused the flight of thousands of Belgians back to civilization.

Businessmen in the United States are being importuned nowadays by their government to invest private capital in the "underdeveloped areas," so that the burden of direct aid will be lessened. But American capital is not likely to venture into lands where there is no respect for the rules of international law. This applies to some countries in Latin America as well as in Africa and Asia.

Instead of depending on a world court to secure protection for the legal rights of American citizens, it would be far better to enter into bilateral agreements with governments of individual countries that seek American aid, and to require a written understanding that, if disputes arise over confiscation or "nationalization" of private businesses, there would come into operation judicial machinery that had been set up in advance.

SPECIAL ARBITRATION tribunals, with representatives of neutral countries, could be provided for, which would render judgments in specific cases. Failure to abide by such decisions should give the government of the United States, or of other countries which follow the same course, the right, granted by treaty beforehand, to use their armed forces to take over any properties confiscated by a foreign government where no proper system of compensation has been established.

If the United Nations, for instance, is to send in joint military forces to police troubled areas, it can use them also to protect property rights.

Superficial thinking sometimes attributes less importance to property rights than to "human rights" —as if the two could always be separated. Yet in the Congo tens of thousands of natives are suffering the loss of jobs because an immature government has recklessly driven out all the managers, the technicians and the trained employes of foreign business establishments.

Also, nearly all of the doctors of the community have been forced to flee. It will take years now to train substitute personnel, and in the meantime the native population will suffer. This is indeed a human tragedy.

THERE IS LOTS of talk in Congress about "foreign aid," and it is frequently referred to also in the speeches of officials of the executive branch of the government. But there can be little accomplished to stabilize the economy of small countries just by "giveaways." There has to be also a solid foundation of private investment.

Unhappily, the neglect of these basic issues by the governments of the United States, Britain and France and other governments in the free world, has produced a form of international anarchy. This will not be overcome until those same governments reassert the traditional right of a citizen to be protected against thievery by new governments boasting of their desire for "freedom and independence."

The assumption of power must be commensurate with a sense of responsibility and, if this is absent, discipline has to be imposed from the outside by the military forces of an international organization.

Electronic Assassins

By John Scali

WASHINGTON

Old fashioned bomb-throwing assassins are becoming obsolete in an age where computing machines and electronic devices are essential tools of day-to-day existence.

The push-button, remote control killer has moved onto the international stage to pose the newest and most deadly threat to government leaders seeking to cope with problems in a tense, troubled world.

In the confidential world of spies, plots and security, the near-successful attempt June 24 to assassinate Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt now is being studied intensively as an astonishing example of how killers have refined their grisly work.

Betancourt escaped death while riding in his official limousine when 1½ tons of dynamite, hidden in a parked car alongside the highway, were exploded by remote control.

His would-be killers set off the blast from a safe distance 300 yards away as Betancourt's car drew opposite the dynamite-rigged vehicle.

Blood streaming from cuts on his face, Betancourt staggered out, saved only because he had been sitting in the back seat. Three aides sitting in the front seat of his car were killed. Eight passersby were injured. His automobile was turned into a smashed fiery wreck.

A painstaking, relentless investigation by Venezuelan authorities since then has revealed the full scientific, cold-blooded scope of the assassination plot. The step-by-step details are due to be laid before the foreign ministers of the 21 American Republics when they meet in Costa Rica in two weeks.

At that time, Venezuela will offer a mass of evidence aimed at backing up its charges that Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo, a bitter Betancourt foe, helped mastermind the plot.

A report last month in which Venezuela linked Trujillo with the plot was described in Washington by Dominican Ambassador Vergilio Diaz Ordonez as a "fantastic reconstruction."

Top U.S. security officials who have examined the case report that it adds up to one of the most "sophisticated" assassination attempts in modern history. What worries them is that the Venezuela example may inspire electronic gangsters around the world to try their hand.

The Venezuelan explosion was triggered off by a pocket-size radio-electronic device operated by skilled, technically trained experts who planned the whole operation with rare scientific exactitude.

Amid the 20th Century, scientific approach, however, one home-made Latin-American touch apparently was needed. The assassins were tipped off that Betancourt's car was approaching by an accomplice who waved his sombrero.

Hot Stuff!

Pepper has spiced man's food and fortunes throughout recorded history.

The ancient Egyptians left peppercorns in tombs, along with other delicacies for the deceased's enjoyment in future life. Early Greeks, Romans and Hindus prized the condiment. When Alaric the Goth conquered Rome in 410, he demanded 3,000 pounds of pepper in addition to gold and silver tribute.

A powerful pepperers' guild operated in London as early as 1180. The costly spice often served as currency during the Middle Ages. It frequently was mentioned in wills and made quite acceptable rent payment.

Today, prices for popular black pepper are rising. As in past centuries, economic factors of supply and demand are again rocking the market.

Pepper hunger in the 15th century not only enriched canny merchants holding stores of the scarce commodity; it helped spark explorations that opened up new worlds to colonization and commerce.

Storms Slam U.S. Midwest

By The Associated Press

Punishing storms drove deeper into the nation's midsection today, leaving at least two dead and seven injured and property damage in the thousands of dollars.

Sweeping out of the North Wednesday the line of squalls toppled trees and power lines, flooded streets and homes and smashed buildings and store windows in parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa.

Today, the Weather Bureau said locally severe thunderstorms with damaging winds and hail were still occurring over the middle Mississippi Valley and the Lower Great Lakes eastward into the Ohio Valley.

At Decatur, Mich., a construction worker was killed and three others were injured when 50 mile an hour winds blew down a half-built warehouse they were working on. What the Weather Bureau said may have been a small tornado demolished a Kalamazoo, Mich., greenhouse.

Winds were clocked up to 75 miles an hour at St. Joseph, Mich., and Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, but air traffic at the latter continued uninterrupted.

One fisherman drowned off the Chicago lakefront when his boat overturned in the rising waters.

In flood-besieged Tampa, Fla., the rain-swollen Hillsborough River crested Wednesday and officials said the worst was over.

Tire Firms Reach Pay Agreements

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Wage settlements affecting 75,000 workers throughout the country have been reached between the United Rubber Workers Union and the members of the Big Four of the rubber industry.

The last of the four settlements was reached Wednesday at Cincinnati between the URW and the U. S. Rubber Co. Settlements with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. were reached Saturday in Cleveland. The union and B. F. Goodrich agreed to terms Monday in Columbus.

All settlements call for a general wage increase of 9½ cents an hour, plus additional increases for employes in skilled trades. They are subject to ratification by the URW locals affected. Ratification meetings are to be held within 10 days after the dates of the agreements.

The talks were under wage reopening clauses in two-year master contracts which run to April, 1961.

Current average hourly wages are $2.85 for Firestone production employes, $2.72 at Goodyear, $2.74 at Goodrich and $2.53 at U.S. Rubber.

Detectives Nab Holdup Man In Loan Concern

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old Warren man was arrested by two detectives Wednesday in the office of the Economy Savings & Loan Co. after he took $925 at gun point from a woman employe. The money was recovered.

The young man was identified as Lee Hooks. The detectives were sent to the loan company office after police received telephone calls from two officials of rival loan companies who said Hooks had been acting suspiciously around their offices and then was seen to enter the building where the Economy Savings & Loan Co. is located.

Columbus Boy Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mark Edward Leake, 3, was killed Wednesday when he ran into a street near his home and was struck by a car, police reported. The driver was not held.

Korea Remains Silent On Red Pilot's Escape

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — U.S. and South Korean intelligence officials refused today to discuss how a runaway North Korean fighter pilot was able to land south of the armistice line without being shot down.

Raul Predicts Fidel's Return

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Raising clenched fists, Raul Castro told a midnight meeting of the Red-tinged Latin-American Youth Congress that his ailing big brother Fidel will bounce back with a vengeance.

Scoffing at rumors the Prime Minister is seriously ill or will be replaced, the 29-year-old minister of armed forces declared: "The best answer for those people (who spread rumors)—they're going to get it directly."

Raul, heir-designate to the leadership of the Cuban revolution, said his 34-year-old brother is "resting well" and "is going to come back really strong."

"Those detractors and the cynical international press and rumormongers are going to feel the strength of Fidel," he declared.

"Let them on looking at the Official Gazette have a doctor at their side."

This was taken as a warning that some new retaliatory laws—especially against Americans — are being cooked up. The Castro regime, in ruling by decree, puts laws into effect by publishing them in the Official Gazette.

Raul was in a fiery and confident mood in his first public appearance since returning from a visit to Moscow and talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The youthful revolutionist hit hard at the theme of spreading the Cuban revolution through the Western Hemisphere.

Federal Tax Foe Accepts Jail In Place Of Payments

NEW YORK (AP)—Dairy farmer Elmer Kirchner is a man of strong convictions. And he went to jail Wednesday to prove it.

Kirchner, a strapping 200-pound, 6-footer, chose jail rather than give up his fight against the federal income tax.

For four years, Kirchner, of Kingston, N. Y., has resisted the tax, maintaining that it is unconstitutional because part of the money is used to support "foreign governments abroad."

Kirchner, 40, the father of four, not only ignored an order to appear in court here June 30 to show cause why he should not answer questions by internal revenue agents. He also allegedly tore up the order and tossed it in the face of an assistant U.S. attorney. And he threatened to use a shotgun if the official did not leave immediately, authorities said.

On Tuesday, four heavily armed deputy U.S. marshals descended on Kirchner's farm. He surrendered meekly and accompanied them to Federal Court.

In court Wednesday, he was accused of failing to pay income taxes since 1956. Kirchner, dressed in dungarees, work shoes and blue shirt, explained his case. In support of his position he recited verbatim the 4th, 5th and 16th amendments of the Constitution. They cover the barring of illegal search and seizure, protection of an individual against self-incrimination and the authority for the federal income tax.

Kirchner's troubles started when he failed to pay his 1956-57-58 income taxes. He and his wife, Ellen, filed joint returns giving their names and addresses—but paying no money.

The case was turned over to the U.S. attorney's office for prosecution early this year.

The farmer told Federal Judge Alexander Bicks that his arrest was illegal and that he was not obligated to pay his tax, because the tax law is unconstitutional.

Bicks held Kirchner in contempt of court, ruling that he would be held in jail until he purged himself — by answering taxmen's questions.

Kirchner went to jail.

Ohio Eyes Radio For Traffic Data

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State highway officials are evaluating some equipment that could make the back seat driver obsolete.

Included is a very low frequency radio transmitter and two types of automobile receivers. Advisories or warnings about traffic conditions, road hazards, speed limits or other situations are recorded on a long-wearing magnetic belt.

Then, as the car approaches the roadside transmitter, an antenna loop activates the receiver in the auto. If it is the type that is permanently attached to the car radio's speaker, this contact shuts off the radio program for the duration of the recorded traffic advice message—three or four seconds. If the receiver is a special unit with its own speaker, the antenna activates it to receive the message.

Representatives of the company that developed the equipment (Delco Radio Division of General Motors Corp.) demonstrated it Wednesday at Ohio State University for officials of the state highway and highway safety departments.

They said the beam can be directed so that traffic going in one direction on a divided highway will receive messages, while cars going in the opposite direction will not. Officials said the equipment probably could be best used at present on toll roads, where an attendant at the entrance and exit booths could install and remove the transmitter from vehicles.

Executive Claimed

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — John F. Magee, 67, board chairman of Alpha Portland Cement Co. since 1957, died Wednesday.

Retarded Child Funds Canvassers Appointed

EAST PALESTINE — Paul Lange, general chairman for a house-to-house collection Aug. 25 from 7 to 9 p. m. to aid retarded children, has announced names of 8 co-workers in 4 wards.

They include Mrs. Paul Brittain and Mrs. Elaine Reid, 1st Ward; Mrs. Anne Harvey and Mrs. Evelyn Holzer, 2nd; Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan and Mrs. Ruth Hosack, 3rd, and Mrs. Sylvia Mollenkopf and Mrs. Connie Massey, 4th.

They will organize about 20 workers in each ward to aid in the canvass. Letter appeals will be sent out next week to industries and fraternal and civic groups.

This will mark the first formal campaign, which is in conjunction with a countywide campaign to help the Columbiana County Retarded Children's Council.

2 City Teachers Attend Mathematics Institute

Miss Helen McGregor of Broadview Circle, an instructor at East Junior High School, and William G. Kelly, 202 Oakwood St., Chester, a teacher at Westgate School, are attending a five-week Institute for teachers of junior high school mathematics at Bowling Green (Ohio) State University. It ends Aug. 19.

Modern developments in the curriculum and teaching of junior high school mathematics are being presented to 57 teachers.

The teachers are attending through a 41,200 grant to Bowling Green from the National Science Foundation. They were selected from 795 applicants.

Budget Commission Will Begin Hearings

LISBON — The Columbiana County Budget Commission, composed of Auditor Kenneth Bell, treasurer Vincent C. Judge and prosecutor G. William Brokaw, will begin budget hearings Monday at 9 a. m.

Township budgets will be the first. The subdivision budgets were to have been turned into the auditor by July 20.

But some townships, libraries, schools and municipalities still do not have their budgets in, according to Auditor Bell.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Can you suggest an efficient way of locking two or more card tables together into one long table for a family gathering or picnic?

A. This can be done by setting the adjacent pairs of legs into snug-fitting tin cans. Be sure to use cans that provide a tight fit for the two legs and are high enough to keep the lengths of the legs together.

Q. How can I make a simple, harmless, and effective whitener for my dainty curtains and fine linens?

A. A tablespoonful of powdered borax, added to the final rinse water, will do this.

Q. How can I remove white rings left on a table top by too-hot dishes?

A. Place a few drops of camphorated oil or sweet oil on the ring, let soak in for a few minutes, then polish off with a soft cloth.

In animal symbolism, a cat stands for deceit and a dog stands for fidelity.

Norstad Tells Of NATO Help If Reds Attack

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Western forces in Europe would be augmented by formidable reserve manpower if the Soviet Union were to attack Berlin, says U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces.

He made the prediction after a conference with President Eisenhower at the summer White House Wednesday.

Norstad, who started back to his Paris headquarters immediately after his report to the President, said the NATO deterrent power is highly effective and — in his opinion—will become even more effective.

Norstad and Eisenhower conferred shortly after the summer White House had announced that Eisenhower will end his seaside vacation Sunday and fly back to Washington.

He will arrive in the capital the night before the Senate reconvenes. The House, which also recessed early last month for the political conventions, goes back to work Aug. 15.

During these last few days of a vacation which started July 7, the President is enjoying the company of his four grandchildren. They are David 12, Barbara Anne 11, Susan 8, and Mary Jean 4.

With their mother, Mrs. John Eisenhower, they arrived by plane from Washington Wednesday. They will return with the President and the First Lady Sunday.

Norstad declined to provide any detail regarding his conference with the President.

Newsmen asked him, however, about reports that the Soviet Union might make a military move against West Berlin.

He replied that he had no personal knowledge of any imminent Communist push — beyond what he had read in the newspapers. The U.S. government has said it knows of no basis for such reports.

Asked whether he is confident that NATO forces in Europe could handle any such Soviet attack, Norstad replied that "the forces in my bailiwick" are not the complete deterrent force in that area.

The general said the troops he commands are very significant in size and are becoming increasingly well equipped.

But he emphasized that in the event of any Soviet attack on Berlin, the Soviet Union would have to reckon with all the forces of the Western Alliance — and not just the NATO troops now stationed in Europe.

Cures Asked By Governor

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia said today that "medical research may be even more important than rocket research."

Underwood, in an address prepared for delivery at the ninth annual Legislative Work Conference, said, "it is more important for America to find a cure for cancer than it is to send the first man to the moon."

Chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board, the governor discussed "Medical Education for Tomorrow's South," calling the subject timely, the needs urgent.

"Proper medical care for people of all ages has become a much-debated subject in this country," he said.

However, he added, "We cannot have adequate medical care, either privately or publicly financed, unless we have an adequate supply of professionally trained people."

Medical education and new scientific research will bring about "new opportunities, new methods and new problems, it was predicted.

And he said, "This country must move as rapidly forward with medical research and medical care as we do in other fields."

More specifically, he urged the group to keep in mind the relationship of their own medical manpower needs with national purpose and national goals.

Steps the SREB has taken to improve medical facilities included mental health conferences on psychiatry, clinical psychology, psychiatric social work and the training of general practitioners for work in these fields.

2 Ohio Men Arrested In Tennessee Holdup

Hancock Staff To Be Slashed

cide which two field deputies must be dismissed. The present deputies and their salaries include Mrs. Thomas McKenzie of New Cumberland, Francis Long of Weirton, Donald Bates of Chester, Howard Smith of Newell, all $1,980, and Leslie Cuppy of New Cumberland, $2,280. Suplee said the loss of two of his staff will leave him "shorthanded."

—:—

CUTTING the five deputies from the payroll in early 1961 will be the responsibility of the new sheriff to be elected this fall. The candidates are Joseph H. Manypenny (D) of New Cumberland and Silas Boley (R) of Weirton. If the five are dismissed, one of the biggest law enforcement staffs of any county in the state will be reduced to eight.

Commissioners said no one will be hired to fill a post in the Health Department made vacant by the resignation last year of Mrs. Frances Wellington.

Tax levies, reduced because of the "extra levies" tacked on by the Board of Education, will raise $381,679 of the total budget.

The rates are 10.65 cents on Class I property, raising $4,546; 21.3 on Class II, netting $43,027; 42.6 on Class III, raising $41,750, and 42.6 on Class IV, providing $393,483.

LAST YEAR, the tax rates were 11.9 cents, on Class I, 23.8 on Class II, and 47.06 on Classes III and IV.

Assessments in the county this year showed increases in Class I, intangible properties, and Class II, owner-occupied houses, but there were decreases in the biggest fund sources, Classes III (rented properties, business and industries outside municipalities) and IV (the same property and business inside municipalities.)

The remainder of the budget funds will come from the following sources:

Balance due from the sheriff's office, $27,603; delinquent taxes, $2,000; earnings of the sheriff, $750; earnings of County Court, $16,500; earnings of Circuit Court, $6,500; miscellaneous receipts, $3,500; tax forfeitures, state tax commissioner, $200, justice of peace fines, $4,800, and refund from Butler District road bonds, $12,500, a total of $74,353.

—:—

NO RAISES were authorized for county personnel. Their last salary boast came in 1956.

The estimated current expenses of the budget are:

Clerk of County Court, $4,840; deputy clerks of the County Court, $16,960; clerk of Circuit Court, $3,800; deputy clerks, $6,840; sheriff and treasurer, $4,700; deputy sheriffs, $69,175; expenses of serving processes and arrests, $15,000; prosecuting attorney, $4,600; prosecutor's assistants and employes, $6,000; assessor, $4,400; deputy assessors, $13,480; assessor's mileage, $10,000; county commissioners, $10,000.

VOLUNTEER FIRE departments, $250 each, or $2,000; county agricultural agents, $5,455; county health department, $32,340; audits by the tax commissioner, $3,000; probation officer, $5,700; county Children's Home, $23,027; general election, $9,000; County Infirmary, $19,500; general relief fund, $57,252; cemeteries, $10,000; dog warden, $6,000, and dog pound, $5,200.

The budget was approved by Commissioners William C. Graham of Chester, Lyle F. Virden of New Cumberland and Dave N. Thomas of Weirton.

Donald Stewart, chief clerk, prepared the annual budget. He left today for a fishing trip in Canada on his annual vacation.

Thirteen president of the United States were elected to office with less than 50 per cent of the popular vote.

Chocolate Yeast Cake Is All-Time Favorite

Some foods just never seem to go out of style. Such a dish is the famous Chocolate Yeast Cake, developed many years ago and still going strong in spite of the fact that it takes longer to make than the standard chocolate cake.

There are good reasons for its popularity with knowing cooks. Though made with yeast, it is decidedly cake not bread. It has a certain rich moistness and "feel" on the tongue, not usually found in the fluffy quick-rising cakes. Its flavor is unique and delectable — not dark chocolate, not milk chocolate. It can be made in a variety of pan shapes. It cuts well and keeps well.

Chocolate Yeast Cake

¾ cup milk
¼ cup warm, not hot, water
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
1 tablespoon sugar
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup soft margarine or butter
2 cups sugar
2-3 cup cocoa
½ cup hot water
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup chopped pecans
2 cups cold light cream; or 1 cup milk and 1 cup heavy cream
1 package instant vanilla pudding
Confectioners sugar

Scald milk; cool to lukewarm. Measure water into a large mixing bowl, (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm for compressed). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk, 1 tablespoon sugar and 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Cover with clean towel and let rise in warm place about 45 minutes, or until mixture is light and spongy. Meanwhile, cream margarine with 2 cups sugar; set aside.

Combine cocoa and hot water; stir until smooth; cool; then add with creamed mixture to yeast mixture. Add eggs, remaining 1 cup flour, baking soda, salt, spices and extract. Beat by hand 10 minutes, or on electric mixer at low speed 6 minutes, until smooth. Stir in pecans.

Turn into well-greased 10-inch tube pan. Let rise in warm place about 2 hours, or until doubled in bulk. Bake at 350 degrees F. 45 minutes or until done. When slightly cool, turn out on wire rack. Let stand until cold.

About ½ hour before serving, pour cold cream into deep mixing bowl. Add instant pudding and coffee. Beat with egg beater until well mixed, about 1 minute. Let stand. Place cake on serving plate. Carefully split into 3 layers. Fill with pudding. Sprinkle top and sides of cake with confectioners' sugar. Makes 1 10-inch cake.

5 Ohio Cities Due Vote Registration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Certification of the 1960 federal census will require five more Ohio cities to register voters, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reported today.

The cities are Ashland, Willowick, Painesville, Kent and Wooster.

Brown explained that statute requires municipalities of 16,000 or more population to establish voter registration.

All five cities have crossed that mark, preliminary census reports show. Brown said he doesn't know when the census figures will be certified but he expressed confidence that registration in those cities will not be required for the Nov. 8 election.

The deadline for voter registrations in cities and counties now requiring them falls Sept. 28.

Early estimates that five other cities might be required to start registrations as a result of the census count failed to hold up. Brown listed them as Delaware, Mount Vernon, Willoughby, New Philadelphia and Fostoria.

Judge Files Innocent Plea To Drunk Driving

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Probate Judge S. Craig Carnes, 49, of Guernsey County, pleaded innocent today to a charge of drunken driving, and his case was taken under advisement by Muskingum County Judge William Geyer.

Judge Carnes waived a jury trial and the case was heard by Judge Geyer. The court gave no indication when it would give a decision.

Judge Carnes was arrested Sunday, July 24, by highway patrolmen on U.S. 40, eight miles east of here.

Reds Focus Publicity Upon Alleged U.S. Spy

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet newspapers kept a full blaze of publicity today on an alleged American spy who, they said, was captured trying to sneak out to Iran.

Expanding the meager details first given, it is now claimed V.M. Slovnov was parachuted into the Soviet Union by a U. S. spy plane.

The U2 and RB47 cases have shown that repeated and successful penetrations of Soviet air defenses by American aircraft, such as reported by Soviet authorities, touch a most sensitive nerve in this country.

The Communist party paper Pravda published pictures of material claimed to have been seized from Slovnov. This included arms, ammunition, flashlights, a knife and assorted documents — enough to wear down a pack mule.

Council Accepts Resignation Of Police Chief At Industry

Industry Police Chief Earl J. Hineman, 73, has retired after serving six years. Previously he was a building contractor for about 40 years.

His resignation, pending since January, was accepted Wednesday night "with regret" by Industry Borough Council at its meeting in the fire hall.

Hineman, who spent most of his life in the Industry area, plans to "whittle and spit", but still keep busy. He has a son, Dr. Marquis Warren Hineman of Hemingford, Neb., and a daughter, Mrs. Lois Macrae of Coldwater, Mich., and six grandchildren.

Council authorized that a letter of appreciation for service be sent Hineman. Part-time police will patrol the borough until a new chief is named.

Council approved an amendment changing zoning ordinances to eliminate the requirement for a 10-foot side yard in commercial zones.

A representative of Michael Baker Jr., Inc., Rochester engineers, attended. Construction bids for a combined post office and borough building will be opened Monday at Rochester. If a satisfactory bid is obtained, construction will begin in a couple of weeks, work to be finished by Nov. 1.

Council will hold a special meeting Aug. 17 for general business. Calvin Dunlap presided last night.

priority to the nation's security.

As part of that, he emphasized an intelligence service capable of guarding attempts against a surprise attack which could be "indescribably more disastrous" than the sneak blow by which the Japanese bombed the Arizona and other ships of the Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Then, speaking to a crowd at Kamehameha Shopping Center, Nixon said:

"There should be no apology for keeping up our intelligence activity so there will never be another Pearl Harbor."

In his speech accepting the nomination, Nixon declared that his Democratic opponent had said President Eisenhower could have apologized to the Soviet Union for the U-2 spy plane incident.

Kennedy has insisted he did not recommend an apology—that Nixon misrepresented his comment about the possibility of expressing regret to save the summit conference Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev torpedoed.

aide, will go there Thursday to work on plans for the trip.

The senator made his announcement after a conference with Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle at the Kennedy summer home.

DiSalle told newsmen after the talks that he expects Ohio, which he called a "swing state," will go for Kennedy and vice presidential candidate Lyndon B. Johnson in the November election.

"I feel that Ohio will support the Kennedy - Johnson ticket, and I think this could very well be an indication of what the nation will do," he said.

DiSalle said people "who are not usually interested in politics" are offering help in the Kennedy campaign. "Never in a campaign before have I had people writing to me asking what they can do," he said.

Kennedy and DiSalle talked over problems of economic growth and employment. The governor said that because of population growth Ohio needs more school teachers, school buildings to handle up to one million new pupils over the next 10 years, and will need additional welfare funds.

"None of these programs can be financed unless we have the business growth necessary to furnish jobs," DiSalle said.

DiSalle said the problem of economic growth and job opportunities also is linked with international relations. Solution of the problem, he said, will mean "people abroad will be far more impressed with the efficiency of our system."

Mt. Everest Climbers May Assist Man In Space Travel

By JOE BENHAM

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The men who conquered Mt. Everest —tallest point on earth—may assist in sending man on into the heavens through a series of high altitude experiments.

An Air Force doctor plans to examine Sir Edmund Hillary and Dr. Hugh Griffiths, two members of the British party which first climbed the 29,002-foot mountain in 1953, during a nine-month expedition to Nepal starting next month.

Capt. Thomas O. Nevison Jr., 31, from Lakewood, Ohio, hopes the experiments and observations of how men perform at altitudes of 19,000 feet and above for long periods of time will give medical men a hint as to how well space travelers can adapt to thin atmospheres.

Nevison, of the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks AFB here, says it would be helpful to designers of space vehi les if the atmosphere inside the cabins could be kept fairly low to match the lack of pressure in space, which is a vaccuum.

This, he said, would lessen the need for heavy materials to strengthen the space craft.

Hillary, Griffiths and Nevison will be part of a 15-man party which hopes to scale Mt. Makalu, fifth highest peak in the world, and catch at least a glimpse of the yeti or abominable snowman.

Nevison said in an interview he plans to leave the snowman-chasing to the others, concentrating on experiments designed to record the bodily processes and reactions of the doctors, physiologists, zoologists, botanists and mountaineers who will make up the expedition.

He plans to record the pulse, brain waves, respiration, body temperature, skin surface temperature and heart beat of the expedition members through cables attached to transistorized instruments on and in the bodies of the climbers.

Homicide means simply the killing of another person while murder means killing a person with malice aforethought.

Cards Take 6th Straight, Trail By 3½

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's no accident that the latest spurt of the St. Louis Cardinals —six straight victories—coincides with the return to batting form of Ken Boyer.

The slugging third baseman got off to a low start this year and the team did likewise. A pulled muscle on top of a batting slump benched him for a while.

A week ago, Boyer returned to the lineup and immediately began hitting. The Cards responded by running up a winning streak that Wednesday had them in third place, 3½ games behind league leading Pittsburgh and only half a game behind second place Milwaukee.

Boyer smashed a home run and two singles Wednesday night, scored three runs and drove in two as the Cards outslugged the Braves 13-8.

Pittsburgh retained its three-game bulge on the Braves although beaten by Los Angeles 3-1. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of rain.

Philadelphia made it three in a row over San Francisco, 6-5, and Cincinnati split with Chicago. The Cubs won the nightcap, 4-2, after the Reds had taken the opener 7-3.

Johnny Podres' seven-hit pitching and Wally Moon's two-run homers, his 10th of the season, led the Dodgers to victory over Pittsburgh. Bob Friend was the loser.

Pinch hitter John Callison's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth gave the Phils their one-run triumph over the Giants. Callison's homer provided Dick Farrell with his second victory in two nights over the Giants.

Ernie Banks' 29th home run, with a man on base, was the difference in the Cubs second game triumph over the Reds. Cincinnati had snapped a six-game losing streak in the opener, largely due to homers by rookie Gordon Coleman and Vada Pinson.

Patterson Wins Club's Hall Memorial Event

Bob Long Arrives At Browns' Camp

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The addition of Bob Long to the Cleveland Browns' squad will mean more competition at linebacker and perhaps a more solid defensive unit.

Long, obtained in a recent trade that sent quarterback Jim Ninowski to the Detroit Lions, checked in at the Browns' training camp here Wednesday.

Shortly after the trade was announced, Long had informed the Browns he planned to retire. But he changed his mind when he discovered he couldn't sit out the option on his contract and become a free agent. He had hopes of signing with a California team and playing in his home state.

This will be the sixth year in the National Football League for Long, who was an All-America end at U.C.L.A. He was bothered by a knee injury last season, but says his knee is sound again.

Meets With Lane Today

Dykes Will Insist On Pact Through '61 Or Quit Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the most unusual trade in baseball history becomes finalized depends on today's meeting in Cleveland between Indians' General Manager Frank Lane and Jimmy Dykes.

Jimmy is one of the pawns involved in Wednesday's unprecedented trade of managers, with the 63-year-old Dykes going to Cleveland and the 45-year-old Joe Gordon to Detroit.

Dykes' Tiger contract expires at the end of this season. Gordon's contract with the Indians has another year to run.

Hardly had the baseball world recovered from the surprise when Dykes announced he would insist on a contract through the 1961 season. Failing to get it, he will quit the game, he said.

The new twist took Lane by surprise. The master trader insisted that Dykes had verbally agreed to finish the season with Cleveland. Bill DeWitt, president of the Tigers, who is the mastermind behind this strange transaction, supported Lane.

Dykes, who remained in New York, saw a suddenly aroused Tiger team, which had lost nine of its last 11, pound out a 12-2 victory over the Yankees Wednesday night.

He told newsmen: "I understood on the telephone I was to get the same terms in Cleveland that Gordon had. What sense would it make for me to go to Cleveland just for seven weeks? I could stay out and still get paid for the balance of the season by Detroit.

"Unless I get next year written into the contract, I will quit and go home. I can't take a seven-week situation in which the players and the manager know that the manager will get fired at the end of that time."

Dykes originally planned to join the Indians in Cleveland Friday. Now he has decided instead to confer with Lane today.

The managerial swap originated three weeks ago as a joke and was resumed seriously 10 days ago when both clubs fell on evil days.

Why was it made?

"When your club goes bad," explained DeWitt, "You do one of two things. You either get a lot of new players or you get a new manager. We got a lot of new players and that didn't help. So we got a new manager."

Should Dykes take over the Indians, there also will be a swap of coaches, Luke Appling going to Cleveland as Dykes' assistant and Jo-Jo White accompanying Gordon to Detroit. The other coaches will remain with their present clubs.

Lane said the change could bring a psychological lift to the Indians who had become dispirited by their recent failures.

"The boys were trying," said Lane, "but they were also pressing. It was apparent to me that Gordon also had become dispirited. In fact, Joe had come almost to the point of giving up. I couldn't accept that kind of attitude. I felt it would rub off on the players."

Lane emphasized he had had no falling out with Gordon.

"Joe is a wonderful fellow and I like him personally," he said, "even if I don't think he's the world's greatest manager. I don't blame him for the club's poor showing. He did the best he could under the circumstances. It wasn't his fault that Woodie Held broke his hand or that Gary Bell, our No. 1 pitcher, became afflicted with wildness.

"I don't expect Dykes to perform miracles. But he does have the happy faculty of picking up a club. He did it with Cincinnati in 1958 and with Detroit last year. I'm hoping he can do it with us this year."

Woodling's Pinch-Hit Triple Nails 6-5 Win For Orioles; Yanks Routed

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore manager Paul Richards has a right to be proud of his fledgling Orioles but he ought to thank his stars that the oldest Bird of them all changed his mind about retiring.

The "old bird" is Gene Woodling, who'll be 38 in two weeks but he doesn't act it. Last Monday night Woodling singled in the winning run against Chicago. Wednesday night Gene tripled home the run in the 11th inning that gave the Orioles a 6-5 victory over the White Sox.

The triumph moved the third place Orioles to within two games of the American League leading New York Yankees and one game of the second place Sox.

The Yankees were soundly whipped by the Detroit Tigers, 12-2, but hung on to their one-game margin over Chicago. Cleveland's fourth place Indians defeated Washington 7-4 to advance to within six games of the top. The scheduled doubleheader between Kansas City and Boston was rained out.

A single by Billy Klaus preceeded Woodling's game winning blow.

Woodling, although hitting .267, is one of Baltimore's leading RBI men with 37. At the end of last season, his 14th in the majors, the veteran was seriously thinking of quitting but reconsidered after talking it over with Richards.

Looking not at all like the team that had lost nine of its last 11, the Tigers flogged four Yankee pitchers for 13 hits, including a home run by Norm Cash.

Tiger southpaw Hank Aguirre retired the first 16 Yankee batters in order before John Blanchard singled with one out in the sixth. Aguirre's arm tightened up after the sixth and his reliever, Phil Regan, was reached for four hits, including a two-run homer by Blanchard.

EL Little Leaguers Meet Barberton Nine Tonight

The East Liverpool Americans will be eyeing a spot in the state semi-finals when they take the field tonight against Barberton in a quarter-final match at Massillon. Game time is 6 p. m.

Manager Tom Cloran's team gained the quarter-final round by eliminating Mingo Junction, 4-1 Monday.

Barberton emerged victorious from District 3. The winner of tonight's game will move to the semi-finals on Monday at North Canton.

East Liverpool has been successful in four tournament contests. The locals opened up with a victory over Scio, then eliminated Massillon. In the district finals, the Americans defeated the East Liverpool Nationals before knocking Mingo Junction from the running.

Battlefield, winner of the 1950 Futurity, won 22 of 44 starts in four years of racing. The chestnut horse earned $74,727 for George D. Widener.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting — Gene Woodling, Orioles, outfielder, tripled in the run in the last of the 11th to give Baltimore a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Pitching—Johnny Podres, Dodgers veteran southpaw, permitted only seven hits for his ninth victory as the Dodgers defeated the Pirates 3-1 in a game called after seven innings because of rain.

Indians Take Rubber Match From Senators In 7-4 Victory

Dykes Will Take Over Tribe On Friday Night

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Cleveland Indians ended a disastrous eastern trip on a happy note by taking a 7-4 decision from the Washington Senators Wednesday night.

The team was under the direction of third base coach Jo-Jo White, who took over after Manager Joe Gordon was traded for Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Detroit Tigers, Wednesday.

Dykes is to take charge of the Indians when they open a 14-game home stand in Cleveland Friday night, beginning with a four-game set with the Baltimore Orioles. The Tribe is idle today.

Jm Grant, whose 14-game winning streak against the Senators was broken last month, started a new one Wednesday night with a six-hit performance.

The Indians won only four of 13 games on the swing through the East, which was featured by the players' protest against the antics of Jim Piersall and the managerial switch.

They won the rubber game here with a three-run rally in the seventh inning, the runs scoring on errors by shortstop Billy Consolo.

The Indians were trailing 4-3 with a runner on second and two out when Consolo booted a grounder to allow the tying run to score. Two more runs scored after he booted another grounder.

Cleveland scored two runs in the first inning off Jack Kralick on a single by John Temple and a home run by Ken Aspromonte. Grant yielded a run in the home half of the inning on a wild pitch after Lenny Green tripled to right-center.

The Tribe picked up another run in the third on a single by Grant and a double by Aspromonte, but the Senators came back with a run on a single by Consolo and a double by Green.

The Senators took a 4-3 lead in the sixth when Faye Throneberry hit a home run after Green singled.

Tom Morgan, who had taken the mound for Washington in the fourth, was the victim of Consolo's erratic play in the seventh and was charged with the defeat.

The Indians got their last run in the eighth on a single by Mike de la Hoz, a sacrifice, and a single by Grant.

Farrell In Last Chance To Make Olympic Team

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Jeff Farrell, whose valiant attempt to make the Olympic swimming team has stirred the sports fans of the nation, gets his last chance today.

The courageous convalescent goes in the 200-meter freestyle race which could earn him a place on the 800-meter relay team —the only spot now open for America's fastest freestyle swimmer.

And he has high hopes of making it.

"I'll go better in the 200," he said Wednesday night. "It's longer and the start doesn't count as much."

First the spindly-legged, 23-year-old Kansan must finish in the first 16 of the later afternoon heats to qualify for the evening semifinals. Then he'll have to get in the top eight to qualify for Friday night's final. The first six in the final will earn the trip to Rome.

Jeff barely missed achieving his goal in the 100-meter freestyle final by a sudden swerve to the right and one-tenth of a second Wednesday night.

The swerve about 30 meters from the finish sent him against the rope lane marker and cost him the precious fraction of a second that meant the difference between second and third. The first two only qualified for the team.

Lance Larson, 20 - year-old speedster from Los Angeles, won the final in 55 seconds flat. Bruce Hunter, a Harvard senior, finished second in 56 flat to capture second and the seat on the plane to Rome. Farrell was clocked in :56.1.

"I just didn't swim a good race," Jeff said later. He made no excuses. He is not the kind who does. This is the fellow who underwent an emergency appendectomy a bare week before the final and swam three days after the operation.

The Millionairess Wins Hamilton Trot

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A one-mile handicap trot and a handicap pace over the same distance were featured at Hamilton Raceway Wednesday night, with backstretch surges held even to the finish wire winning for lucky entries in each event.

The Millionairess won the handicap trot in 2:08 3-5, to pay $5.40.

Wrestlers Face Crucial Tests In Olympic Trials

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Four matches, all crucial, are on today's abbreviated schedule of eliminations for the U.S. Olympic wrestling team.

Two of them were ordered after a pair of draws in the freestyle matches at Stillwater Wednesday night. Doug Blubaugh and Phil Kinyon fought to their 7th deadlock in as many meetings at 160½ pounds and heavyweights Bill Kerslake and Hallow Wilson also drew.

They are scheduled to meet again this afternoon at the team training site, the University of Oklahoma. But the big stir was expected at 125½ pounds where Terry McCann of Tulsa and Dave Auble of Ithaca, N.Y. were scheduled.

McCann, three-time AAU champion and considered by many to be Uncle Sam's best bet for a gold medal in Rome, is ranked fourth because he didn't wrestle in the team trials at Ames, Iowa.

Auble, two time NCAA champion at Cornell, is ranked first and won the Pan American Games title.

Ex-Marine Sets Pace In Western Amateur Tourney

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Phil Rodgers, a powerful Marine Corps recruit, charged Northland course and the Western amateur golf field Wednesday like a one-man landing party.

The former NCAA champion from Houston University, now playing out of San Diego, topped 16 qualifiers for championship match play competition by finishing three under par for 72 holes at 281.

But an impressive roster of rivals was shooting at him. These included the defending champ, Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., Walker Cupper Tommy Aaron of Gainsville, Ga.; Labron Harris Jr., of Stillwater, Okla., at 18 the youngest of the qualifiers, and Bob Cochran of St. Louis, at 47 the oldest.

Arnold Palmer won five tournaments this year before taking the U. S. Open.

Women Open Fire In Waterloo Play

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP)—Eight women who have won 17 tournaments this year were among the 28 pros who began a four-day bid for the Waterloo Women's Open Golf Championship.

Betsy Rawls, the defending champion from Spartansburg, S.C. Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., and Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., each have won three 1960 titles.

Fay Crocker of Wichita, Kan., Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee and Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich., have been in the winner's circle twice and Patty Berg of River Grove, Ill., and Bev Hanson of Palm Desert, Calif., each have won one tournament.

The professional field was the biggest ever for the Waterloo event which is being held for the third time. Some $7,500 in prize money will go to the leaders with the winner collecting $1,313.

Cox-Merchants Wrap Up City-County League With 5-2 Win

Chamberlain Decisions Salem With Four-Hitter

Dick Chamberlain the veteran righthander, set Salem down on four hits and blasted a home run to carry the Cox-Merchants to a 5-2 victory Wednesday in a County-City League battle.

Although he gave up four walks, Chamberlain whiffed 10 Salem batters in going the distance for the league leaders.

His teammates backed him up with eight hits, including two each by Frank Gibas, Jim Miles and Wimp Dunlevy.

Cox-Merchants drew first blood with a run in the first of the second inning, but Salem came back in its half of the second to take a 2-1 lead.

East Liverpool immediately came back with two runs in the third and a pair in the fourth and Chamberlain blanked the Quakers through the last five innings.

In another league action Wednesday, Chippewa bounced Lawrenceville, 14-2, and East Palestine and Negley played to a 3-3 tie.

The victory wrapped up the County-City League championship for Manager John Andrason's team. The Cox-Merchants entry shows a 13-4 record with the season ending next week.

Leafs Pull Out Another Victory In International

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs, a bunch of opportunists, have done it again, making the most of a break and a cross-up single by pitcher Frank Funk for a 12-game lead in the International League.

After Columbus loaded the bases with two intentional walks to get to Funk, the right-handed reliever came through with a one-out 11th inning single that beat the Jets 7-6 Wednesday night. An interference ruling opened the way for three runs that brought the Leafs a tie with two out in the ninth.

While the Leafs pulled it out, the rest of the first division stumbled. Second place Richmond was walloped 13-1 at Montreal, Ruben Gomez pitched a three-hitter as last place Miami defeated Rochester 7-0, and Jersey City knocked off Buffalo 14-6.

The Leafs, using every man on the roster except three starting pitchers, got rolling in the ninth when Jackie Waters singled and scored on a two-out double by Archie Wilson. Earl Hersh then reached first on an interference call against Jet catcher Charlie Brockell, and Steve Demeter lined a single that loaded the bases before Billy Moran tied it with a two-run single.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (AP) — A Cincinnati man was one of two persons hospitalized with injuries sustained in the crash of two Norfolk & Western passenger trains here Wednesday.

He is James E. Wilson, 50. Also hospitalized was Betty Blumer, 44, of Louisville, Ky.

Some 50 other passengers were taken to hospitals, but were treated and released. Among them were the engineer of the Powhatan Arrow, Raleigh Bailey, 66, of Buena Vista, Ohio, and his fireman, J. A. Wynn, 37, of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Other Ohioans injured were J. D. Hank Scores First Round KO Over Ellis

CHICAGO (AP) — Hammering Henry Hank, bitter despite his first-round knockout over Rudy Ellis in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, is going rest and play a waiting game.

Hank has scored six victories in seven fights this year and wants a shot at the middleweight championship—either one.

The NBA title is held by Gene Fullmer while in the states of New York and Massachusetts Paul Pender is recognized as the division champion. Hank's bitterness is apparent in his charges that both Fullmer and Pender are ducking him.

"I'd belt either one of them if I met them in the street," said Hank, the father of five with No. 6 on the way.

In scoring his 45th triumph, 33 by knockouts, the slugger from Detroit made it look easy by kayoing Ellis in 2:30 of the first round.

Hank, 161, sparred with Ellis, 157½, for the first two minutes of the fight. Then he let go a left hook which straightened the Chicago middleweight and followed with a right to the head, finishing off Ellis.

Because of the quick knockout, a six-round preliminary fight between Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia and T. J. Jones of Chicago was hurried on the nationally televised program. The match was awarded to Hubbard on a split decision.

Ex-Champs Trail In Archery Meet

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — The national archery target championships for 1960 were up for grabs today, but defending title holders had their work cut out for them.

Defending men's champion Wilbert Vetrovsky of Cleveland, with 1,889 points, was 88 off the pace set by Bob Kadlec of Rochester, Minn., with 1,978. Kadlec was last year's runnerup. Close behind in second place after a second-day firing, was Jim Caspers of Racine, Wis., 1,968.

In the women's division, 1959 titlist Carole Meinhart of Pittsburgh—who has held the crown since 1956 — watched Mrs. Ann Clark of Cincinnati, the 1955 champion establish a new tourneymark for American round play by shooting 596. Mrs. Clark emerged from the day with 2,373. Mrs. Betsy Hibbard of Harrisburg, Pa., was in second place with 2,368.

Four junior champions were crowned Wednesday: Debbie Clark, daughter of Mrs. Ann Clark, took the junior girl's title with 2,322 points and Larry Mann of Brockway, Pa., the junior boys honors with 2,766. The "junior" classification is for contestants within the 12-to-15 year age group.

Among "cadet" entrants—in the 11-year-age bracket—Kenney McMahon of Cincinnati topped his field with 2,268, while among intermediate boy contestants, for those 15-to-18 years, Jim Leader of Cincinnati ran his points to 2,003.

Driver, Woman Killed When Auto Hits Truck

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Two persons were killed Wednesday night in a head-on car-truck crash on U.S. 33 about 2½ miles southeast of here at a road construction area where traffic is limited to one lane.

The victims were William Lee Devitt, 37, of Rt. 3, Plain City, driver of the car, and Helen Juanita Spain, of Rt. 3, Plain City, his passenger.

The auto, according to the Highway Patrol, proceeded into the single-lane area of the highway despite a red light that was on, halting traffic from one direction so that vehicles going the opposite way could get through, the patrol said.

The car collided with a tractor-trailer outfit driven by Neal Betts, 35, of Fort Wayne, Ind. He was unhurt.

The first president of Spanish-speaking Chile was named O'Higgins.

RUDY ELLIS of Covert, Mich., looks around to see what happened after he was knocked out by Henry Hank of Detroit, Wednesday in the first round at Chicago. The end of the middleweight fight came at 2:30 of the first round. (UPI Telephoto)

Phone Talk Via Moon Tests Satellite 'Bounce' Proposal

BY JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP) — Two scientists carried on a 480,000-mile conversation Wednesday night, from a soggy New Jersey hilltop to the torrid California desert—via the moon.

"Hi, Walt. Can you hear me?" asked William C. Jakes of Bell Laboratories, from Crawford Hill, N.J.

"Yes, yes, you're coming in fine," answered Walter K. Victor at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory Station, Goldstone, Calif.

The voice of Victor sounded a little hollow—as if he were talking into a barrel. This was caused one scientist explained, by the irregularity of the moon's surface.

Both voices, translated into radio beams, flashed skyward at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second—and bounced off the moon to be picked up by receivers on the earth.

It wasn't the first such conversation for Jakes and Victor, both 38. They had others during the past weeks in tests of the equipment.

But it was a dramatic public demonstration of the principle in a Bell Telephone plan, outlined recently to the Federal Communications Commission, calling for 50 space satellites around the earth to provide quick worldwide communications.

Jakes spoke into an ordinary black table model telephone — a ridiculous contrast in itself to the gigantic equipment it commanded into operation.

His voice buzzed over telephone wires to the giant transmitter, a 60-foot dish on a huge pedestal, moving almost imperceitibly to keep its aim on the moon.

At Goldstone, the moon echo was caught by a gigantic horn-shaped ear.

The weak signals returning from the moon were amplified by ruby masers — the remarkable electronic devices that make such radio feats possible.

Wellsville Boy Scout Troop 14 will hold a corn and wiener roast Monday night at 6:30 at Hammond Park, with various events to follow.

Howard Adrian, radio sports announcer, will give a fly casting demonstration and talk and Robert Gray will discuss scouting. There will be tent-pitching and water-boiling contests followed by a prize award.

Proceeds will be used towards buying furniture for the troop meeting place. Tickets are available at the E-Z parking lot in East Liverpool, at Warden's Sunoco station and Bell's Market in Wellsville or from the scouts.

In event of rain, the event will be held in the pavilion.

Cincy Breaks Error Streak To Trip Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Cincinnati's Reds broke a 17 consecutive game "error streak" Wednesday—and in doing so, won a ball game from Chicago, 7-3 — but promptly reverted to the old ways in the nightcap, chalking up their 30th miscue in 18 games as they lost 4-2.

It all started July 17 and even though the record books take no account of such things, it's a fair assumption that few clubs in recent years have "erred" at greater length in consecutive games than have the Reds. The Reds' defenses, both inner and outer, have literally fallen apart — five games during the period have been marked by three errors each.

In winning the first game Wednesday, incidentally, the Reds snapped a six-game losing streak and a skein of three Cub victories —longest of the season for Manager Lou Boudreau's crew.

Jim O'Toole, with a helping hand from Jim Brosnan in the seventh, posted his ninth victory in 18 decisions in the opener as the Reds parlayed three two-run scoring spurts to put the game on ice.

The cellar-dwelling Cubs got an unearned run in the seventh and an earned run in the eighth inning of the nightcap to saddle young Jay Hook with his 12th loss. Hook yielded only six hits.

Today's finale of a four-game series will find Cal McLish opposing rookie left-hander Jim Brewer. McLish held the San Francisco Giants to one hit in six innings last Saturday.

Bulldozer Lends Final Touch To Street Work

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The residents of a Louisville street breathed a sigh of relief when city repairmen finally plugged up holes in the pavement. But they had hardly inhaled again when the sighs became gasps.

About four hours after the repairmen were through, a bulldozer came along and not only ripped the repairs, but tore up the whole street.

City officials explained they had contracted with a private firm to rebuild the street, but didn't know he was to begin so quickly.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent spot rings from forming on cloth when removing stains from garments?

A. By placing a felt - covered furniture floor cup under the spot before applying the cleaning fluid. In addition to preventing a ring from forming, the brush - like fibers of the felt also keep the material from slipping when the spot is rubbed.

Q. What is a good way to lubricate a sluggish zipper?

A. Have you ever tried using an ordinary wax candle? Simply stroke this over the teeth on both sides of the fastener, and you'll find the device working much easier.

Q. How can I reheat meat to its original goodness for a latecomer?

A. By placing it in a heavy skillet, covered with lettuce leaves and then with a lid, and heating in a moderate oven.

Five-year-old David Muslovsky, 436 Midland Ave., Midland, learned Wednesday that rats are not the best of playmates.

He was bitten on the left hand, between the thumb and forefinger, by a rat which he tried to catch in an empty garbage can. The incident happened about 11:30 a. m.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Stanley Muslovsky, called Midland police. David was taken to a physician for treatment.

Thinking of rabies, police checked with the doctor to see if the rat should be caught and held for 12 days as in the case of dogs.

The doctor advised them to kill it. Police then scalded the rat, which was about 9 or 10 inches long, in hot water.

Eichman Seizure Issue Settled By Argentina, Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Argentina have settled their differences over the kidnaping of Adolf Eichmann, accused of directing the mass murder of six million Jews under Hitler.

Israeli agents seized Eichmann in Argentina May 21 and whisked him off to Israel, where he now awaits trial as a war criminal. The Argentine government charged that Israel had infringed on Argentine sovereignty by acting without its knowledge or consent. It demanded Eichmann's return to Argentina.

A communique Wednesday night in Buenos Aires and Jerusalem said: "The governments of Israel and the Republic of Argentina, animated by the wish to comply with the U.N. Security Council resolution of June 23 in which hope was expressed that traditionally friendly relations between the two countries would be advanced, have decided to regard as closed the incident that arose out of the action by Israeli authorities which infringed the fundamental rights of the state of Argentina."

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

TV Brings Back The Silents

Mindful that one of the pleasures of an attic is that time plays such surprises there, the American Broadcasting Co. goes to the cobwebby recesses of Hollywood this week in quest of old matter for a new series.

Marie Torre

An all-silent picture series, that is! The cynically inclined may say about this that it's taken television 12 years to progress to the point where motion pictures began, but the earnest begetters of the project herald it as an exhibition of valuable curios, a reacquaintance with the wisdom and beauty of a past show business generation.

"AND GREAT entertainment!" chorus writers-producers Saul J. Turrell and Paul Killiam, who allow that their enthusiasm may be prejudiced.

"At one agency where we showed the pilot film," put in Turrell, "the brass was kind of upset. All the secretaries—some 50 of them—had left their desks and huddled around the door of the screening room to get a glimpse of Valentino. They were all agog."

Killiam offered an even greater tribute to the memory of Hollywood's all-time lover.

"We're opening the series with Valentino's 'Son of the Sheik,' " he said. "If this film were to run without people knowing that the star was Valentino, 300 agents would rush out of their houses to sign him up.

"His impact, even by today's standards, is that great! So much so that you forget you're watching an old movie. This also is true of some of the other silent films—after we edited them down to fit the half-hour format."

"SILENTS, PLEASE!" as the series of flickers is called, also will present such historic movie gems during its 13-week run (beginning tonight at 10:30) as "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," with John Barrymore; "The General," with Buster Keaton; "The Flappers," with Clara Bow; "Orphans of the Storm," with Lillian and Dorothy Gish, and "The Black Pirate," with Douglas Fairbanks Jr.—all in half-hour showcases.

"The cinema buffs probably will scream at the cuts," Killiam remarked, "but we must remember that we have to compete with 'Have Gun, Will Travel,' or some other Western.

"By careful editing, we've done our best to preserve the spirit of the film, each of which has a soundtrack—music, sound effects and a bit of narration."

The narration also is likely to be frowned upon by the motion picture purists, many of whom have long proposed a return to the art of old silent pictures.

Their theory is that films speak a universal language only when they are done with action and music instead of words.

Which is, indeed, a thought for television! Especially on Sunday afternoon, when the curse of most every show is inexhaustible verbosity.

CBS' RPEAT of "Lippmann on Leadership" Aug. 11 is labeled "by popular demand," which in this case happens to be true . . .

The "Diagnosis: Unknown" creators thought they had hit upon a totally improbable name in "Mookerji," the Hindu assistant of Dr. Coffee in the series. But a letter from Calcutta advises them that there is a Dr. Mookerji at the School of Tropical Medicine there . . .

The Joint Committee Against Pay-TV officially denied published reports to the effect that the networks have done an about-face and now look upon toll video with favor. Maybe not now, perhaps, but even the networks admit that economics will force them into pay-TV when and if it becomes a reality . . .

Spike Jones and his Noisemakers, back on the summer scene, call their musical jamboree a combination of Leonard Bernstein and "The Untouchables" — "Music and Blood." . . .

No doubt indicative of the durability of quality fare, "Victory at Sea," the 9-year-old series, will have another airing on NBC Dec. 3, on the 19th aniversary of Pearl Harbor. Nineteen years! How times flies!

Dealers Get Warning On 2 Prices For 1 Gas

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — At least 10 gasoline stations in southern Vermont are selling gasoline from a single tank through differently labeled pumps at different prices, Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Debevoise says.

The difference in price is as much as four cents a gallon.

The attorney general warned that such a practice, if done knowingly by attendants, constitutes fraud.

Farm Aid Bill Seen Set For Congress' OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee predicted today the post-convention session of Congress will enact stop-gap legislation designed to boost 1960 farm income by one billion dollars.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., also predicted the legislation will escape President Eisenhower's veto. He said "I don't see how the President could object if he wants to do something about this farm surplus mess."

In other preliminaries to the session:

1. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, indicated Congress will increase defense funds. He called for the administration to say how the added money should be used. The long list of defense items which Johnson said the session will consider might add billions to the defense budget.

2. Two New York Republicans, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. William E. Miller, said they plan to offer legislation covering all of the Democrats' civil rights platform promises. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., had said Sunday he would seek quick action on the GOP civil rights proposals. But leaders of both parties made it clear they do not intend to bring up civil rights during the session they hope to wrap up by Labor Day.

In response to a question, Cooley said he didn't know just what kind of legislation Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, had in mind when he promised last month to push for a farm bill in the August session.

However, Cooley added that he plans to confer with Kennedy before meeting Aug. 12 with the chairmen and ranking Republican members of the various House Agriculture subcommittees to survey the farm piture.

Pundit, 6, Terms Senate 'A Boom!' In Backyard Poll

By KATHY SMALL
Elmira Star-Gazette Staff Writer

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—The tricycle set, aged 6 to 10, is at least slightly confused about the national political situation.

This is proved by a survey conducted in pup tents, backyard wading pools and other likely spots. There was reward in trailing the ice cream man's cart.

Most of those interviewed had ready answers. A few seemed reluctant to commit themselves and asked for time to consult their friends. One young man answered every question with: "Gee, I know the answer to that but I forgot it."

"What do you think of the world situation?" was our first question. An eight-year-old gave it some sober thought. "I think it's round," he answered. Other answers included: "It's okay." "It's in outer space."

When asked to identify Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the young people answered:

"I think he's a wrestler." "He's a German spy." "He's a president who travels around the world." An eight-year-old said: "He's a 'communas' man."

Our next question: "What's politics?" got this answer from a six-year-old boy. "Is it some kind of sickness?"

"What is a mayor?" drew these opinions:

"It's a bad dream," and "a horse." (A majority of those questioned knew positively that a mayor was a horse.)

"Who do you think will be the next president?" was answered:

"Washington or President Eisenhower." "Kenneson." Ninety per cent favored George Washington, although some expressed doubt that Washington still was living.

"What's the Senate?" we asked and drew a blank from all but a six-year-old lover of jet planes. "It's a big loud noise!" he said. "I heard a senate boom one time when I was playing in my backyard."

Old Autos To Be Used As Reef To Aid Fishing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An artificial reef of old car bodies will be formed off Miami Beach in an effort to improve fishing.

The Metro Commission Wednesday agreed to spend $10,000 on the project. The plan calls for linking about 1,000 junked automobiles together in groups of five and dropping them along a two-mile line.

The car bodies should become covered with marine life and make an ideal home for small fish which would attract bigger sea specimens.

Bank Bandit Asks Court To Return $18,758 He Held

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Glen W. Dolvin, a convicted bank robber, has started court proceedings to recover $18,758 found in his possession when he was arrested in California.

The money, said to be part of the $30,880 Dolvin stole from the Mahoning National Bank's Boardman Plaza branch in a holdup in 1957, was turned over to the bank's bonding firm.

An attorney for Dolvin filed suit Wednesday in Common Pleas Court, claiming irregularities in a hearing last October to determine who was entitled to the money should vacate the default judgment against Dolvin.

The Commercial Insurance Co. of Newark, N.J., is named defendant in the suit, which says the bonding firm failed to notify Dolvin to appear to complete the taking of a desposition.

Dolvin was sentenced in April 1958 to not less than 20 years in Ohio Penitentiary for the Boardman Plaza bank robbery. Two months earlier he had been sentenced to 10 to 25 years for armed robbery in a $5,000 holdup of the J. C. Penney Co. Boardman Plaza store in October 1956.

Free on bond, Dolvin was arrested in San Diego, Calif., on his way to Mexico and had with him more than $18,000 which he claimed he had won gambling. He started serving his sentence in April 1958.

Court Upholds Bomb Verdict

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Sixth Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals has affirmed the conviction of a young Cincinnati attorney in the first case it has considered under new federal statutes concerned with bomb hoaxes.

In a 2-1 decision Wednesday, the court upheld a one year prison term and $1,000 fine imposed against Robert James Smith, 31. Judge John W. Holland of Miami, Fla., sitting by assignment, dissented while Judges Paul C. Weick and Lester I. Cecil joined in affirmation.

A federal court jury took less than two hours, May 22, 1959, to convict Smith on charges he telephoned the control tower at Greater Cincinnati Airport to report that a bomb was on a plane about to depart.

Smith was accused of making the hoax call to prevent Maurice Klopp of Cincinnati from leaving by plane for Boston. Klopp, accused of mail fraud and concealing assets, was free on $2,500 bond raised through the Kind Bonding Co. operated by Smith.

The prosecution contended Smith made the call after ascertaining that Klopp had left for the airport without signing a bond application.

Smith has been free on $10,000 bond, pending appeal.

West Virginia Car Checks Cost Owners $2,894,177

CHARLESTON (AP) — Inspection of their cars, and related repairs and adjustments, cost West Virginia's motor vehicle owners $2,894,177 in the fiscal year ended June 30.

The office of State Police Supt. Hazen Fair was quick, however, to point today to another figure it regarded as significant proof of the true value of the inspection program.

The average such cost per vehicle inspected, which ran $5.70 in fiscal 1955-56 — the first year in which the West Virginia program was operated — had dropped off almost a dollar, to $4.71, for the recent 12 months. The figure a year ago was $4.85.

"That indicates a general improvement in the standard of vehicle condition," Fair's office contended. The state's experience so far has shown that about 30 per cent of repair and related costs involve lights and 15 per cent brakes.

Public and fleet inspection stations numbered 1,200 in the state during the past year and an annual report by the motor vehicle inspection unit in Fair's department showed those licensed places checked 613,961 vehicles.

The inspection stations may charge up to $1. The report listed motorists' costs from that source alone of $560,601. The figure of more than $2,800,000 also included the inspection charge, as well as the 25-cent fee per inspection sticker issued.

Last year's inspections resulted in the rejection of 15,090 vehicles. Generally bearing out a four-year trend, 167,386 of the necessary repairs and adjustments involved lights, and 82,002 brakes.

There were 29,310 steering adjustments; repairs to or replacements for 32,254 mufflers, and 14,108 wiper corrections.

Vehicle inspections are carried out during the 12 months of each year. All vehicles must be checked at least once each year and are due for re-inspection during the same month of their last previous checks.

West Virginia is among 15 states and the District of Columbia which now have periodic vehicle inspection. Experience again has shown that 40 per cent of the vehicles checked require repairs or adjustments.

Fair's office noted that a National Safety Council analysis for 1959 evaluated the West Virginia program at 95 per cent of recommended performance. It added:

"The basic purpose of periodic motor vehicle inspection is to discover any maladjustments in vehicles that might potentially lead to accidents and — by correcting those maladjustments — to prevent mishaps.

"Inspection helps to educate and keep car owners aware that certain parts need periodic attention and that it is less expensive in the long run to have the vehicle checked regularly than to wait until a breakdown occurs."

Toronto Girl Is Cited After Car Hits Another

A Toronto girl was cited on a charge of making an improper right turn following a two-car accident Tuesday night at the intersection of Route 7 and Island Creek Rd., near Costonia, south of Toronto.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Fred Matyas, 26, of Empire had halted to make a left turn onto Route 7 when his auto was struck by another driven by Janet L. Talamine, 17, of Toronto, who was attempting to turn onto the Island Creek Rd.

The patrol said the Toronto girl is to appear in Jefferson County Juvenile Court on the charge of improper turning. Neither driver was injured in the mishap at 7:40.

Sohio Delivering Despite Walkouts

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio said Wednesday night that gasoline is being delivered to its 400 stations in northern Ohio despite a strike by 900 drivers called by the Independent Petroleum Workers Union in a dispute over contract terms.

The company said other haulers normally hired to supplement Sohio truck drivers are filling the gap while the company trucks are idle.

Drivers in the Cleveland, Youngstown and Akron districts are affected by the strike, which started early Wednesday.

Officials of the IPW talked with the Teamsters Union on problems of the strike Wednesday. Asked if this meant the IPW would try to get its 900 members into the Teamsters Union, John H. Garver, attorney for the striking union replied:

"That subject did come up among other things. We had a discussion of our problems and they were sympathetic to our position."

The talks were with William H. Presser, president of the Teamsters Joint Council.

Principal issue in the strike is the IPW's demand for a union shop clause requiring that all employes join the union within 30 days after employment.

The union also is seeking a wage increase of 12 to 16 cents an hour and hospitalization insurance. The current wage is $2.72 an hour.

Sohio has offered a wage increase of eight cents an hour. It says it is against the union shop as a matter of principle.

Board Hires 5 For Western School Posts

The Western Beaver County Board of Education has hired five new teachers and accepted the resignation of Mrs. Evelyn Perine, board secretary and secretary to the supervising principal.

Mrs. Perine, who is expecting a child, has served as secretary for seven years and formerly taught in the elementary schools of the district. She resides in Ohio Township. Her resignation was effective Monday but she will remain until a new secretary is hired.

Frank Meredith, supervising principal, was authorized at the meeting Monday to accept applications for positions of secretary, wage and income tax collector and a woman janitor for the Fairview School.

The new teachers are Miss Judith Ann Kaye of Midland, Miss Carolyn Csiszar of Ohio View, Mrs. Elizabeth Sainovich of Ohio Township, and Chester Bonner and John W. Hineman, both of Beaver.

School will begin Aug. 30, according to a calendar adopted by the board for the 1960-61 term.

The following teachers' pay schedule was adopted by the board: Standard certificate, $3,800 per year; bachelor degree, $4,000; master degree, $4,200, and maximum salary for standard certificate, $5,400, bachelor degree, $5,300, and master degree, $6,200.

A contract at 10.59 cents per gallon for fuel oil with a 1 per cent discount was awarded the Allied Oil Co. of Freedom for the Fairview School on its low bid. Other bids were received from the Atlantic Refining Co. and Gulf Oil Co., both of Pittsburgh, and the Sinclair Refining Co. of West Bridgewater.

A bread contract for the Ray W. Snyder and Fairview School cafeterias was awarded the Keystone Bakery, Inc., of West Bridgewater.

The board authorized the Western Beaver County School Authority to advertise for bids for additional furniture and equipment for the Snyder School.

The dedication of the Snyder School will be held Aug. 18 at 8 p. m. with H. Curtis Elder, superintendent of Beaver County public schools, giving the principal address. The building will be open for inspection until 10:30 p. m.

Bills of $66,032.67 were ordered paid. James P. McClaskey, president, presided. Next meeting will be Sept. 6 rather than Sept. 5, which is Labor Day.

Only seven or eight have signed in the registration for new students in the Western Beaver County School District, which began Tuesday and ends today, the Ray W. Snyder School office reported. Most new students entering the first grade registered at a preschool clinic held earlier.

Hancock Retarded Child Group Names Auditor

The North Hancock County Council for Retarded Children met Tuesday night in Chester American Legion home and appointed Miss Callie Tsapis to audit the books for the year.

Brief business was conducted by Anthony F. Laneve, president. He was named in charge of transporting children to a special class for the school term this fall.

Plans were discussed for sponsoring a card party late in September. Sale of Halloween candy also was discussed.

The next meeting will be Sept. 6 in the Newell American Legion home.

Kefauver Faces Tight Ballot Fight

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Democrats choose today between Sen. Estes Kefauver and Judge Andrew T. Taylor in a Senate primary election fought largely over civil and states rights.

Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate four years ago, pitched his campaign for a third term on his 22-year record in the House and Senate. He was criticized by his opponent, a circuit judge from Jackson, for supporting civil rights legislation.

Indications were the vote would be close.

Upwards of 650,000 persons were expected to vote, which would be a record turnout for a Senate race in this state.

Kefauver's base strength is his native East Tennessee, while Taylor expected to get a thumping majority in segregation-minded West Tennessee. This could make the heavy voting midstate region's vote decisive.

Boy Cyclist Killed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Phillip Smith, 12, of Akron, was killed when thrown from his bicycle Wednesday. The boy suffered head injuries in the accident at Perkins Woods, where there is a children's park and zoo. His bike hit a curb.

Cumberland Asks $25,857

NEW CUMBERLAND — Council Tuesday night adopted a budget of $25,857 for the 1960 fiscal year with no pay raises granted to any employes or officials.

The amount is an increase of $1,219 over last year's budget of $24,640.

An increase of $35,000 in property assessments in the municipality allowed the higher budget. Increases in the assessments came in Class I, personal property and public utilities.

A total of $8,714 will be raised by tax levies. The rates are: 16 cents per $1,000 valuation in Class I, 32 cents per $1,000 valuation in Class II, and 64 in Class IV.

Other estimated receipts are: parking meter fines, $1,400; capitation tax, $4,500; consumer sales tax, $1,600; driver license tax fees, $1,300; general license tax fees, $3,800, balance in the treasury as of June 30, $1,292 and balance from the sheriff, $1,351.

In listing estimated expenditures, Council doubled the amount set aside for repairs for the Town Hall. It was increased to $1,000. The contigent fund was increased $150 to $1,636. The special fund for operating the Community House, playgrounds and the fire department was set at $2,441.

A sum of $350 was allotted for election expenses. An increase of $225 was made for furniture and office equipment expenses.

Council also granted a leave of absence to Police Chief Joseph H. Manypenny. Jacob Baxter, water supervisor, will assume duties as chief.

Trophies Planned For Races At Fair By Lisbon Club

LISBON — The Lisbon Trot and Pace Club has announced it will award trophies in several harness races at the 115th annual Columbiana County Fair Aug. 23-27. They will be given winners in the 2-year-old trot and pace and 3-year-old trot and pace in honor of a local race horse driver and three former Columbiana County Fair Board members now deceased.

The Harry Caton award of a cooling blanket will be presented, along with trophies in memory of Harry Marsden, George Rogers and Howard Sinclair, trophys, Galen Greenisen, Fair Board publicity chairman, said.

The United Local Twirletts will be present Wednesday evening, Aug. 24, and will participate in the parade and perform in front of the grandstand.

The Jane-Ettes — 40 girls from the Jane Burkey Studios in East Palestine, will hold the same spotlight Thursday evening, Aug. 25.

Entries for the fair are coming in and the board's office at the fairgrounds will be open each day, beginning Aug. 15, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Greenisen said.

New fence is being constructed around the race track, which has been widened and drained, and all the barns will be cleaned. Some new roofs are being installed, along with some painting.

The board will also spray the fairgrounds for flies for the convenience of patrons, Greenisen said.

FDA Requires Bins, Combines Be Cleaned

LISBON — Farmers must clean their combines thoroughly before running wheat through them to be sold and must clean and treat grain bins in which wheat is stored for sale if they are to comply with the requirements of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, according to information received by County Agent Floyd Lower.

Elevators are instructed to refuse to buy wheat which does not meet the sanitation requirements of the FDA. New grain should not be mixed with old grain. Bins in which wheat will be stored should be cleaned thoroughly from old grain and then sprayed with methoxychlor or malathion. A grain protectant should be used with grain to be stored for sale, Lower said.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Mother Used Paddle To End Troubles

Often I have urged parents to aim to be done with spanking and paddling by the time the youngster enters school, but have admitted that some children might profit from physical punishment later. Since control measures, other than jawing, are sometimes needed, I have advised that, as soon as a child will stay where put, parents seat him in a chair, unamused, for a period of 20 to 30 minutes. But suppose he leaves the chair too soon? Then a sound paddling, if it can be done with dispatch, may be desirable. A mother writes the following from Ontario, Canada: "Some time ago I began reading your column and I was impressed with the sound common sense that you display in suggesting that parents teach their children the meaning of No at an early age, but may I say that while it is undoubtedly advantageous for a child to learn this in his preschool years, all is not lost if proper measures are taken before the youngster becomes a teen-ager.

Garry C. Meyers

"MY OWN situation was a good illustration. As the mother of twin boys, aged ten, and a girl eight, all three of whom were raised from birth with a maximum of permissiveness, you can well imagine I was having my difficulties with them. Every request or order that I made of them developed into a long drawn-out argument.

"Finally, when the twins were very naughty one day, I decided to adopt your idea of assigning them to chairs facing opposite corners and warning them that if they failed to spend the allotted time of 30 minutes in the chairs, they could expect a spanking.

"Not ten minutes had elapsed before I heard them racing about the room and when I inquired what they were up to, they imprudently told me they 'didn't feel like it.'

"Without further ado I marched both boys to my room where, after taking one over my knee, I administered eight or ten stinging spanks on his bared bottom with a little wooden paddle and then proceeded to give the other a similar paddling.

"After the spanking two warm and tearful little boys ran to their room and I must confess that I felt like a brute.

"BUT NOW, several months later, in which time the paddle saw service on only one additional occasion and chair sentences were served without a murmur, I feel that I did the right thing in following your advice. I followed the same course with my daughter and now find that all three, while by no means angels, have developed into reasonably well-behaved and obedient and happier youngsters, now that they realize certain limits must not be overstepped.

"I hope this letter helps other mothers who are similarly troubled."

Check Begins On Petitions At Wellsville

Auditor Edgar S. Davidson of Wellsville has started a check of approximately 319 signatures on 5 petitions filed by Wellsville policemen seeking a place on the Nov. 8 ballot for an initiative ordinance to reduce the work week.

The city auditor estimated the check may be completed by Tuesday or early next week.

A total of 265 names are needed for the proposal to be certified to the Columbiana County Board of Elections. The figure represents 10 per cent of the vote cast at the governor's election Nov. 4, 1958.

Davidson will hold the petitions 10 days for public inspection while determining if they have sufficient valid signatures for a ballot spot. The petitions were filed Saturday and the required 10 days for holding ends next Wednesday.

Police now work six 8-hour days. The petitioners included three members of the police department and Glenn Mathess, head of the Fraternal Order of Police Associates Lodge.

Keep In Trim

Summer Gives Slimming A Lift

Summertime is ideal for taking slimming action. There is a freedom about this out-of-door living season that gives life a lift. Friends, so many happy reducers credit a summer series with providing them the start which helped them to get out of the overweight class. Take hope from this promise: Get on the right course this summer and you can achieve shining success. One young lady wrote:

By Ida Jean Kain

"Your summer series came just in the nick of time. I had slowly put on weight until I was pushing 160 pounds. . .for 5 feet 6. I made becoming clothes to hide the fact and fooled myself in general.

"An old admirer came calling and it was then my pride whispered, 'I'll bet he thinks you're the fat one!' Right then your summer slimming diet started and I decided there was one sure way to slim down and stay slim. . .and that was to count calories.

"LUCKILY I LIKE most of the recommended vegetables, fruits, and lean meats. So I never felt sorry for myself. In fact, when the compliments started coming in, I wouldn't have stopped short of my goal for anything.

"I walked to stores where I normally drove and said 'No, thank you' to tempting desserts. In three months I celebrated my victory by stepping out in a sheath dress. And Ida Jean, I didn't get as many compliments at 18 as I do now at 38."

One of the most rewarding letters this dietitian ever received came from a dieter who had started slimming with a summer series. She took off 18 pounds during the summer months and continued to curb calories and reduced 50 pounds by the following spring, which brought her to ideal weight. The surprise ending to her story. . . "This happened 20 years ago and I am still happy, healthy, normal weight."

Overweight is now considered our most serious nutrition hazard. Talk this over with your dotcor and follow his advice as to the amount of weight to reduce.

Government Role Debated

Candidates Battle For Farm Vote

(What action should government take on the nation's farm economy? What's to be done about the mountainous surpluses? In another in a series of articles on the key campaign issues, an AP reporter who covers the agricultural scene examines the candidates' positions.)

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The role of Uncle Sam in agriculture will be a big issue in this year's presidential battle for farm votes.

It was an issue four years ago, but the matter has gone unresolved in the only place where it can be settled, and that's in Congress.

Broadly speaking, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic standard-bearer, is lined up on the side of greater participation of the government in the economic affairs of farming.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, would have government play a lesser role, although somewhat greater than that advocated by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

This issue could become decisive in a close election. Both candidates plan to spend much time and effort to swing farm producers their way. This campaigning will be staged in a traditionally Republican area, which, however, has tended to swing Democratic in recent elections. Democrats contend farmers are ready to revolt from their traditional political stand because of dissatisfaction over a decline in farm prices and income under a GOP administration.

Kennedy perhaps will get the jump with farmers. He has indicated Democrats will press for special farm-aid legislation at the post-convention meeting of Congress. Republicans might find it difficult to oppose such legislation, and President Eisenhower to veto it.

Both candidates — and their party platforms — have expressed identity of views on some aspects of the farm problem — a problem largely of overproduction influenced by agriculture's technological progress and resulting low prices.

Both promise to make greater use of food surpluses to help underdeveloped areas abroad and to create strategic reserves for national and international emergencies.

The major differences between the candidates arises over the question of what the government should do should surpluses still continue to be produced.

Kennedy is pledged by his party's platform to bring back—and in some respects tighten—production controls which the Eisenhower administration has been able to toss aside in the case of some crops. These controls would employ marketing quotas based on units of production, such as pounds, bales and bushels.

The GOP platform, on the other hand, promises producers a greater framework of freedom.

Both candidates have yet to outline their farm views in detail. But both platforms call for retirement of cropland as one means of reducing output. The Republicans appear to place more stress on this. In fact they would employ it as their basic production control device, but a voluntary one.

The Republicans talk in terms of idling 80 million acres of cropland, or more than twice the amount retired under an Eisenhower soil bank plan expiring this year. Presumably, this could cancel out agriculture's surplus producing capacity and bring about a balance between supplies and markets. Farmers would be paid rentals, in the form of both cash and government - held crop surpluses. These rentals would have a total annual value of more than a billion dollars.

It is the GOP theory that such a land retirement program would eliminate outlays for price supports and storage of surpluses, which now run into more than two billion dollars a year.

Both Kennedy and his party's platform would place greater emphasis on price supports. They promise 90 per cent of the farm law's parity farm price goal for major crops. At present these supports are 75 per cent of this goal or lower.

The GOP platform says promises of specific price supports is a cruel deception based on a pessimistic pretense that only with rigid controls can farm families be aided.

What Happened To $2 Hotel Room?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a shame the way America lets go so quickly of its past, and one of the traditions it has lost is the fine old tradition of the $2 hotel room.

Whatever happened to it anyway?

In these prosperous times, most middle-aged people shudder at the mere mention of the word "depression." It brings up mental pictures of breadlines and grown strong men standing on street corners, trying to sell apples.

Actually, in the trying times between 1929 and the outbreak of the second World War, I don't recall any man trying to peddle me an apple.

Although the pay was small and the hours long during the depression years — if you were lucky enough to have a job, and most people were — they were years that had some consolations.

One of them was the $2 hotel room.

As many people today under the age of 35 have never heard of such a thing, perhaps I had better describe it.

The $2 hotel room was featured, usually, by a somewhat seedy and a bit run-down hostelry that had seen better days. It was strategically located across the street from a tavern that sold a tall foaming glass of beer for a nickel.

The hotel lobby was large and old-fashioned and furnished with plush red remnants of its faded grandeur. The floor was of marble. In the evening aging traveling salesmen, like inlad mariners, liked to sit in the lobby chairs and swap lies of their success on the road when they were younger.

When you checked in, an elderly bellhop delivered your bags to a creaking elevator and steered it himself up to your floor. If you gave him a two-bit tip he would flash a look of real gratitude, and if you gave him a four-bit tip he would sit down, break into tears, and tell you the story of his life.

The room was $10 if you stayed a week, $25 to $30 if you stayed by the month.

The room itself was big and comfortable. It had a 19th century air of durability. It also had a lived-in look, as many of its hundreds of tenants had left some mark of their passing—a cigar burn on the writing table, carpet stains, a telephone number scribbled on the wall by the telephone.

The double bed was big and soft, and over it hung a picture of Whistler's mother to remind the weary traveler that somewhere, sometime, someone had loved and waited for him—and perhaps still did.

The room held a big old chipped bureau; two floor lamps, one of which worked; a bedside table, and a huge shabby old chair by the window where you could sit and read the Gideon Bible or look across the court to see if anything interesting was going on in the $2 rooms over there.

Sometimes you had to take a bath down the hall, but if the room did have a bath attached it was huge and often held a tub large enough to cradle the Cardiff Giant.

What the $2 hotel room lacked in style, it made up for in other ways. It was light, airy, generous in size, mellow with the security of the past, and gave millions of Americans a bargain when they needed one most.

Whatever happened to the $2 hotel room?

Some hotels have cut it into three $12 rooms with single hideaway beds that only a mechanical engineer can open. And over the bed hangs a water color of the Arc de Triomphe in a pelting rain.

And if you palm the bellhop with less than a buck, he looks at you as if you were either Silas Marner or Rip Van Winkle. As soon as you unpack your clothes you go out to a movie.

Anything to get away from this impersonal, cold substitute the management likes to call "your home away from home."

The letter E is the most frequently used in the English language. The letter Q is the least used.

New 'Space Dive' Set For Air Force Officer

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger, of Holloman Air Force Base the man who attained fame by falling down,, will take another high dive from the edge of space this month.

Kittinger made parachute jumps of more than 14½ and 12 miles last Nov. 16 and Dec. 11 respectively from a balloon over this southern New Mexico missile range.

The Air Force would not say from how far up Kittinger will make this attempt. Announcement of the date will be made by the Air Force in Washington.

Purpose of the long jumps is to test the equipment used at such heights and human reactions to them as part of the Air Force' space research program.

HAVE YOU EVER SAID

WELL, HERE THEY ARE:
This owner certainly is not stubborn as he has just reduced this nice one story four bedroom home with more than an acre of ground, oil furnace, hardwood floors, patio, nice view. It is on Campground Road not far from Lake Marwin. Reduced from $12,600 to $11,000

Definitely the nicest four room home we have had for the price all this year. All rooms are very large, very modern bath and kitchen, full basement, gas furnace, sink in what will be your recreation room, and all on a nice level lot convenient for a Crucible or Hall China worker. Only $12,-600 and easily worth $14,000

If you have just been driving by, you may have been missing the boat. You will only be seeing an inselbrick cottage and a lawn that hasn't been cared for this summer. However if you take the time to let us show you the spacious yard, the nice side porch, modern bath, and the many other features that it really has, you may change your mind. Especially since it is reduced to $6,500

You may say no from the outside, but you will begin to say yes as soon as you get inside. The outside is sort of standard, but it surely has personality inside with it's nice rooms, hardwood floors, large kitchen, etc. You may want to see it since it is reduced to $10,700—near Irwin Drug, Northside.

HAVE YOU EVER SAID

WELL, HERE THEY ARE: This owner certainly is not stubborn as he has just reduced this nice one story four bedroom home with more than an acre of ground, oil furnace, hardwood floors, patio, nice view. It is on Campground Road not far from Lake Marwin. Reduced from $12,600 to $11,000

Definitely the nicest four room home we have had for the price all this year. All rooms are very large, very modern bath and kitchen, full basement, gas furnace, sink in what will be your recreation room, and all on a nice level lot convenient for a Crucible or Hall China worker. Only $12,600 and easily worth $14,000

If you have just been driving by, you may have been missing the boat. You will only be seeing an inselbrick cottage and a lawn that hasn't been cared for this summer. However if you take the time to let us show you the spacious yard, the nice side porch, modern bath, and the many other features that it really has, you may change your mind. Especially since it is reduced to $6,500

You may say no from the outside, but you will begin to say yes as soon as you get inside. The outside is sort of standard, but it surely has personality inside with it's nice rooms, hardwood floors, large kitchen, etc. You may want to see it since it is reduced to $10,700—near Irwin Drug, Northside.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A dear friend of mine has a 4-year-old daughter who is a pain in the neck. This child is permitted to answer the telephone every time it rings.

The mother thinks it's cute and encourages the girl to chat at length with the adults who call. Maybe I'm an old meanie but I have no desire to listen to the child babble on and on. In fact I find her obnoxious.

I'm tempted to tell the mother how I feel but I don't have the nerve. Do you think it's right for a 4-year-old to have complete charge of the telephone? How can I avoid this irritating situation?—TRUDY.

Dear Trudy: Don't call her—let her call you. In my opinion, a 4-year-old should not be permitted to answer the telephone. Children should be taught early that a phone is not a toy. Young children should speak on the phone only to those who ask specifically to speak to them, and not be inflicted on every unsuspecting caller.

Should you tell the mother how you feel? If you're long on friends and don't mind losing one, go ahead.

Change The Rules

Dear Ann: We've been married 22 years and have three children. Our life together has always been a little rough for a variety of reasons.

I learned two years ago he was seeing a woman who works for him. She's 10 years younger than I am, very pretty, and I can see how a man would fall for her. I went to pieces and started to drink heavily. He promised if I'd quite drinking he'd stop seeing her. I have kept my promise and he has kept his.

I've been going to the office every day to do the bookkeeping. The truth is I'm keeping an eye on him. This woman got married last year but she still works there.

Our relationship is strained and sometimes I think I should stop fighting it. I've offered him freedom but he says he doesn't want. What's best?—UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: Keep fighting but adopt some new ring rules. Stay away from the office. Your husband feels "watched" and this is poisonous to any relationship. Make yourself as interesting and attractive as possible. And when he's at home — turn on the heat.

Play It Cool

Dear Ann: I'm 15 and never dreamed a girl my age could need advice so badly.

A week ago Saturday night this fellow (I'll call him Rock) asked for a date. He said he'd call me during the week and let me know what time he'd pick me up. I stayed home all week waiting for the call because he is a very popular senior.

Well, he didn't call and I was heartbroken. This morning my best girl friend told me that last night she and her boy friend doubled with Rock and his date was a girl who is a real kook.

This afternoon Rock had the nerve to call me for a date for next week. He acted as if nothing happened. I said no — that I was busy. I made no reference to being stood up. The trouble is I really like the guy, or should I say rat, and I do do do want to go out with him. How shall I play it?—FAY.

Dear Fay: Play it cool.

The next time Rock calls for a date tell him you'd like to go with him but you've learned from experience he's not very reliable. Ask him what happened and give him a chance to explain. There's no point in stewing silently about something when he may have a perfectly plausible explanation.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Youth, 13, Hangs Self In Clothesline Mishap

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Gregg Richardson, 13, of Norton Twp., accidentally hanged himself Wednesday night while playing with a plastic clothesline in a tree at his home. Sheriff's deputies said the boy had one end of the line wrapped around his head and the other tied to a branch. The clothesline dropped around his neck when he slipped and fell off the branch, officers said.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A dear friend of mine has a 4-year-old daughter who is a pain in the neck. This child is permitted to answer the telephone every time it rings.

The mother thinks it's cute and encourages the girl to chat at length with the adults who call. Maybe I'm an old meanie but I have no desire to listen to the child babble on and on. In fact I find her obnoxious.

I'm tempted to tell the mother how I feel but I don't have the nerve. Do you think it's right for a 4-year-old to have complete charge of the telephone? How can I avoid this irritating situation?—TRUDY.

Dear Trudy: Don't call her—let her call you. In my opinion, a 4-year-old should not be permitted to answer the telephone. Children should be taught early that a phone is not a toy. Young children should speak on the phone only to those who ask specifically to speak to them, and not be inflicted on every unsuspecting caller.

Should you tell the mother how you feel? If you're long on friends and don't mind losing one, go ahead.

Change The Rules

Dear Ann: We've been married 22 years and have three children. Our life together has always been a little rough for a variety of reasons.

I learned two years ago he was seeing a woman who works for him. She's 10 years younger than I am, very pretty, and I can see how a man would fall for her. I went to pieces and started to drink heavily. He promised if I'd quite drinking he'd stop seeing her. I have kept my promise and he has kept his.

I've been going to the office every day to do the bookkeeping. The truth is I'm keeping an eye on him. This woman got married last year but she still works there.

Our relationship is strained and sometimes I think I should stop fighting it. I've offered him freedom but he says he doesn't want. What's best?—UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: Keep fighting but adopt some new ring rules. Stay away from the office. Your husband feels "watched" and this is poisonous to any relationship. Make yourself as interesting and attractive as possible. And when he's at home — turn on the heat.

Play It Cool

Dear Ann: I'm 15 and never dreamed a girl my age could need advice so badly.

A week ago Saturday night this fellow (I'll call him Rock) asked for a date. He said he'd call me during the week and let me know what time he'd pick me up. I stayed home all week waiting for the call because he is a very popular senior.
